

Russia Sees Possible War Over West Berlin

Foreign Minister Hits At Proposal by Allies To Keep Forces in City

Moscow — (AP) — The Soviet Union warned yesterday that western insistence on remaining in Berlin could kindle nuclear war that would reach America.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko continued the Kremlin's campaign to force the western allies out of West Berlin by predictions of nuclear war if they stay. He boasted that Russia is well armed for any trouble.

Gromyko spoke at the closing session of the winter meeting of Russia's parliament, the supreme soviet. He also urged a ban on nuclear weapon tests without controls which the west consider necessary.

Diplomats in Washington said they found nothing new in Gromyko's speech. There was no immediate comment from the state department.

If an end is not put to the Berlin crisis, Gromyko said, "the threat will further increase the possibility of West Berlin becoming a second Sarajevo."

This was a reference to the assassination of Archduke Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary at Sarajevo, Serbia, in 1914. The incident touched off World War I.

Premier Khrushchev has demanded that the United States, Britain and France pull their occupation troops out of West Berlin by June 1, leaving it a demilitarized "free" city surrounded by communist East Germany.

Western attempts to reach Berlin without East German permission would be aggression against the Soviet bloc, Khrushchev has warned.

The west has pledged to stick with the 2,200,000 West Berliners, who overwhelmingly vote anti-communist. It contends East Germany has no authority to control western military traffic to Berlin.

Two Admit Topsy Driving

Roy Skenandore, Donald Norenberg, Lose Licenses

One man was sentenced to the Outagamie county jail for 120 days and another was fined $100 this morning on charges of drunken driving.

Drivers' licenses of Roy E. Skenandore, 41, Oneida, and Donald C. Norenberg, 35, route 1, Hortonville, were revoked for one year by Acting Municipal Judge Stanley A. Staidl.

Skenandore, sentenced to jail, will be allowed to work out of the jail under the Huber law.

He was arrested by county police Thursday afternoon after he drove his car into the path of a westbound car driven by Richard Paul, 27, route 7, Green Bay, at Seminary road and Highway 54. Paul received head bruises and Skenandore a cut on his head.

Second Conviction

It is Skenandore's second drunken driving conviction. He was driving his car without a driver's license. It was revoked July 1 for driving after revocation. He refused to take the drunkometer test.

Norenberg was arrested by state police when they noticed his 1931 Model A truck weaving across the center line of Highway 45 about one mile west of County Trunk T Thursday evening.

Police testified Norenberg was delaying two cars behind him and nearly sideswiped the patrol car when police attempted to stop him.

Norenberg told police he was on his way to a tavern to get a Christmas drink. He tested .23 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Burglar Blamed For $200,000 Fire

Milwaukee — (AP) — A three alarm fire, blamed on a burglar by police, caused an estimated $200,000 damage to a 2-story business block on Milwaukee's near east side today.

The 35-year-old burglar was arrested at gun point by police, who then discovered the fire. Fire Chief Edward Wischer said the blaze probably started when the burglar's cigarette ignited cleaner fumes in the women's wear shop where he was found.

An antique shop, another clothing shop, a grill, several offices and a religious reading room also were damaged.

51 Fired for False Employment Claims

Chicago — (AP) — Post office inspectors said Friday that 51 part-time mail sorters were discharged because they paid off a timekeeper to credit them with working in Chicago's main post office when they were absent.

The timekeeper resigned several days ago during an investigation of irregularities, said Robert R. Justus, postal regional director in Illinois.

Justus said it had not been determined whether all of the employees will be prosecuted.

58 Persons Dead In Fires; Nine in One Family Killed

Father, Two Others Flee Blazing Home in Rural Auburn, Wash.

New York — (AP) — Fifty-eight persons, including nine members of an Auburn, Wash., family and five members of a prominent Virginia family, died in an outbreak of holiday fires across the nation.

Dozens of others were injured, some critically.

The Washington fire claimed nine members of a family of 12 when flames destroyed their farm home. Five bodies were recovered two hours after the 6 a.m. blaze and fire department officers were searching the ruins for four more.

Firemen said those listed as dead were Mrs. Ohe Hollenbach, 38, and eight children: Gale, 18, Donald, 17; Garry, 16; Sharon, 15; Patricia, 13; Mary Ellen, 8; Carl, 6, and Penny, 4.

The husband and father, Hollenbach, was burned only slightly.

The two other survivors were Wanda Hollenbach, 7, and Mrs. Hightower, 80, presumed to be the mother of Mrs. Hollenbach.

The cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

Five of the six members of a prominent Virginia family perished when flames swept their $150,000 mansion in the fashionable Windsor Farms suburb of Richmond early today.

They were Horace A. Gray, Jr., 49, director of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper company; his wife, Catherine, 47; two sons, Thomas, 17, and Foster, 13; and a daughter, Susan Lee, 19.

Another son, Horace A. Gray III, 22, had left the home a short time before the fire and returned to find his family dead.

Two separate Pennsylvania blazes took the lives of three small children each.

An early Christmas morning fire killed the three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Degnan at Wilkes-Barre despite a desperate effort of their parents to save them. The children were Deborah, 4, Donald, 2, and Edward, Jr., 1.

3 Killed in State Traffic

Toll for Year Set At 802 Compared With 909 Year Ago

Milwaukee — (AP) — Three persons have died as the result of Wisconsin highway accidents since the Christmas holiday began Wednesday evening.

The state's traffic toll for the year now stands at 802, compared with 909 on this day in 1957.

Robert S. Felsner, 17, Oshkosh, was killed early today when the car in which he was riding left a county road north of Oshkosh and overturned.

Mrs. Norma Ebert, 40, of route 1, Waukesha, was killed Christmas night when the car in which she was riding was involved in a collision with an auto being pursued by a city of Waukesha police squad.

The crash occurred on Highway 59 near the victim's home. Her husband, Charles, the driver, and their two teenage children were injured.

The 39-year-old driver of the other car was injured slightly and under police guard at a Waukesha hospital.

Marvin Turney, Jr., 18, of Keshena, was killed at 1:24 a.m. Thursday when his car crashed against a tree near Keshena Falls in Shawano county.

James Shea, 69, of Milwaukee, died Christmas day of a skull fracture suffered last Monday when struck by a car at an intersection near his home.

Accord Reached By Eastern and Its Machinists

By the Associated Press

Eastern Air Lines, having reached agreement with its striking machinists, returns to the bargaining table today with its striking flight engineers.

The line has been grounded for more than a month. Also out of commission is American Airlines, which is awaiting a decision by striking pilots on a 7-point settlement formula proposed by federal mediators. The company accepted it.

Chances are slim that the two carriers will be operating in time to take care of a post-holiday transportation crush.

After the 5,300 striking members of the International Association of Machinists ratified the settlement with Eastern, George M. Brown, president of a Miami district of the union, said his members would not be asked to cross picket lines of any other union.

Yugoslavia Protests Attacks in 2 Nations

Belgrade — (AP) — The government has ordered its ambassadors to communist Czechoslovakia and Hungary to protest "gross attacks on Yugoslavia," it was disclosed today.

Dezago Kunc, government spokesman, said the attacks were part of a joint declaration by Czechoslovakia and Hungary after a visit of a Hungarian delegation to Czechoslovakia.

Kunc declared this country was being slandered in the Soviet bloc with the aim "to blacken Yugoslavia at any price."

Kneeling Prisoners, Hands Clasped prayerfully, line the corridors of Rome's Regina Coeli prison to hail Pope John on his historic visit to the institution Christmas day. "You could not come to see me," said the pontiff, "so it is right that I come to you."

Precedent Set in Pope's Jail Visit

Most of 1,500 Prisoners Permitted to See Pontiff

BY RICHARD EHRMAN

Rome — (AP) — Rome's grubby but celestially named prison on the bank of the Tiber unrolled a rented red rug today to welcome Pope John XXIII — the first pontiff in modern history to visit a jail.

The directors of Regina Coeli—Queen of Heaven—jail also took a few precautions, such as sprinkling a few plainclothesmen among the prisoners.

"You could not come to see me," said the 77-year-old supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic church, "so it is right that I come to you."

The 1,500 prisoners, most of whom were permitted to look down on the pope from their tiered four floors of cells, cheered lustily and rhythmically. "Viva il Papa! Viva il Papa!"

Guards Warned

They chanted so loud and long ignoring orders to stop from the guards, that one guard shouted, "Sta zitto! (Shut up!)"

Prison Supt. Carmine Scalia, embarrassed by the outbreak, called an aide and whispered: "Remind the guards that they are to follow today's instructions. They must act sweetly."

About 50 prisoners selected for good behavior were near the pope as he stepped to a platform in the prison courtyard. On it was a temporary throne—the overstuffed chair of the prison superintendent. The pope did not sit in it.

Apparently deeply moved by the enthusiastic reception, he remained standing throughout the brief welcome address by Justice Minister Guido Gonella.

"Your Holiness' initiative in visiting a prison, which is a place of suffering, is an even-

Mikoyan Granted Diplomatic Visa

Moscow — (AP) — The U. S. embassy today issued a 3-month diplomatic visa to Vice Premier A. I. Mikoyan for his forthcoming visit to the United States.

An embassy spokesman said it was understood Mikoyan would leave early in January for about two weeks in the United States. He will travel by commercial planes.

Embassy sources said Mikoyan made no special requests concerning his trip, saying he would arrange details after his arrival in Washington.

Mikoyan will be subject to the same travel restrictions within the United States as are imposed on Soviet diplomats and citizens. They are barred from broad areas of the United States because similar restrictions are placed on Americans in the Soviet Union.

Byrnes Discusses Election

Congressman Says He Will Not Join Liberals

Washington — (AP) — Rep. John W. Byrnes (R-Wis.), who labels himself a conservative, says the tag is a naughty word to some people.

But Byrnes, who survived the Democratic onslaught in the Nov. 4 election to win an eighth two-year house term, made it plain he doesn't intend to swing to any "liberal" group.

Pleased With Budget

"I just do not believe in the political philosophy of 'if you can't beat them, join them' he said.

He said he was delighted at word from the White House that President Eisenhower's budget to be submitted to congress in January would total about $77 billion, nearly three billion under that for the current fiscal year.

Byrnes admitted he didn't have the full answer as to why the Democrats made such sweeping gains in the last election.

"Part of the reason," he said, "may be the fact that we have not sold our story. We have not told our story."

"Our failure has been not to let the people know why we believe our principles are best for the country at large. I certainly do not think that the Republican philosophy and conservatism of the past be thrown out for the philosophy of the modern day liberal."

It is his view, Byrnes said, that the Republican party objective is to hold government action and responsibility to a minimum and to foster greater individual action and initiative.

"The word conservative to some people," he said in an interview in his office, "means a naughty word. That is at the heart of some of our difficulties."

"Yet if we recognize what the word conservative really means—preservation of our economy and political institutions which made this

Understandable Stocks Column In Post-Crescent

Writing a column pleasing to everyone is an almost impossible assignment. If you've been reading the new daily feature by Sylvia Porter, you could well agree that she comes closer to accomplishing this goal than just about any woman writer.

Miss Porter writes about money — but in everyday terms — its meaning to the average wage earner, the small businessman, the new investor. No high finance or international banking problems for her!

Read Sylvia Porter on Page B-9 of tonight's Post-Crescent. We think you'll want to make her column a habit throughout the coming year.

If Our Own Democrats adopted this practice, Congress would look like a hotel.

South Korea's opposition democratic party, bucking a bill proposed by President Syngman Rhee's liberal party to amend the national security law, just moved beds into the national assembly headquarters in Seoul and staged a sitdown—or lie down—strike. The maneuver turned into a battle royal when police tried to remove the bedding.

Battles Looming In New Congress

Normal Slow Start of Law Making Process Appears Destined Not to Be When January Session Opens

Washington — (U) — With Christmas over, congress members will start arriving soon for the new session which may open with battles in both house and senate.

The 86th congress convenes Jan. 7 with much bigger Democratic majorities on both sides of Capitol Hill than during the 85th congress of 1957-58.

Normally things get off to a slow start at the opening of a new congress. But this time things look different.

In the senate, a fight is shaping up over a move by northern Democrats and Republicans to change the rules in such a way as to curb filibusters. This move faces a stiff battle from southern Democrats who in the past have used the right of unlimited debate to block civil rights legislation. The scrap over the rules issues could go on for weeks.

Family Quarrel
In addition, senate Republicans are embroiled in a family quarrel. A group which views the present GOP command there as behind the times is pushing a rival slate for top leadership posts.

In the house, a bloc of self-styled liberals wants to limit the power of the rules committee to bottle up legislation. Under present house rules, that committee can keep most bills from the house floor almost indefinitely.

Unless a compromise is reached ahead of time, this fight will be settled on opening day.

Another controversy confronting the house involves the disputed election of Dr. Dale Alford, a Little Rock segregation leader, to replace Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark), an avowed moderate on the segregation issue.

Seating Problem
A special house committee recently conducted a preliminary probe of charges that irregularities figured in Alford's victory as a write-in candidate. The committee has recommended that Alford not be seated pending a fuller inquiry by a regular house committee.

Unless the case becomes an out-and-out civil rights issue, Alford probably will be permitted to take his seat on Jan. 7.

These controversies aside, it probably will be at least a month before any legislation of consequence reaches the floor of either branch.

The house must completely reorganize from scratch. The senate, with two-thirds of its membership holdovers from the previous congress, has fewer organization problems.

New Leader
Senate Republicans must select a new leader to replace William E. Knowland, who retired from the senate to seek the governorship of California. He lost that race. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas continues as senate Democratic leader.

Rep. Sam Rayburn (D-Texas) is certain to be reelected speaker of the house—a post he has held 14 years, longer than any other man in history.

Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts will be picked again as house Democratic leader while Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., also of Massachusetts, will continue as Republican leader.

Laundry Union Official Says He Will Resign
Milwaukee — (U) — Arno Schultz has announced plans to resign as president of Local 3008 of the Independent Laundry, Dry Cleaning and Dye House Workers International Union.

The union was ousted from the AFL-CIO on grounds of alleged corruption. The AFL-CIO then formed another union to place the ILDCU, which battled the AFL-CIO for control of Local 3008.

Atty. Mas Raskin, of the AFL-CIO group, said in commenting Wednesday on Schultz's resignation. "We can now concentrate on properly representing these workers."

Raskin said the AFL-CIO trusteeship over the local would continue until Local 3008 can show it is again ready for self-rule.

Renew Effort To Settle UAW Walkout

Seven Issues Still Divide International Harvester, Union

Chicago — (U) — A renewed effort to settle the 6-week strike at International Harvester Co. plants will be made Sunday when federal mediators present new proposals to negotiators for the company and United Auto Workers.

Seven issues still separate the two groups. Negotiations broke down six days ago in the dispute which has idled 27,000 workers in 18 Harvester plants across the nation, plus six warehouses and two parts depots.

Both sides agreed to meet Sunday with Douglas D. Brown and William Murray of the federal mediation and conciliation service.

Talks Break Down
A Jan. 6 date had been set originally for resumption of talks when negotiations broke off last Saturday.

Among the areas of disagreement were these: Harvester wants to freeze night shift premiums at the present level and asks the union to agree to a summer shutdown for inventory purposes. The UAW wants special wage increases for apprentices, higher wage hikes for clerical and technical help, and generally agreed upon, and correction of wage inequities claimed by the union in some plants.

Agreement has been reached on a 6-cent per hour wage hike, or 24-per cent, whichever is higher; continuation of the cost of living clause; supplementary unemployment compensation; pensions; hospitalization; insurance and seniority rights.

Under the expired contract, wages averaged $2.55 hourly. Four men and the 17-year-old wife of one were shot to death early Christmas morning in this remote Canadian bush country village.

The son of one of the dead men was to be charged with murder today, Inspector Tom Corsie of the Ontario provincial police said.

One of those killed was police Constable Calvin Russell Fulford, 28, who was called away from his wife and three small children to break up a brawl in a 1-room log cabin.

Corsie said police still were trying to find out what provoked the shooting. But the clothing of the dead woman, Mrs. James Gordon, had been torn and she was bruised, indicating the possibility of rape, he added.

The others killed were Gordon, 26; Albert Young, 47; and George Williams, 47.

Young's 27-year-old son Tom was being held. Police from nearby towns hunted today for clues and sought any witnesses. Young Mother Gets Final Wish, Will Die in England
St. Louis — (U) — A last look at her native England has been promised to a young mother, dying of blood cancer.

Mrs. June Walter got the news from her husband, Charley, on Christmas day. The military air transport service will fly her to England so she can have her most fervent wish — to die on her native soil.

"I knew God would answer my prayers if I waited long enough," said 22-year-old Mrs. Walter from her bed in a hospital ward.

Lt. Gen. William H. Tunner, commanding officer of the transport service, said, "We'll take her any time she wants to go."

Her departure hasn't been set, but doctors say it will have to be soon. Ill for four and a half months, Mrs. Walter has lost 31 pounds. She weighs only 80 pounds and is plagued with high fever and an inability to eat solid food.

50 Children Who Lost Fathers Get Piles of Christmas Gifts

Rogers City, Mich. — (U) — Christmas for the families of the men lost with the Great Lakes freighter Carl D. Bradley was as happy as friends could make it.

"Nothing was lacking," said Mrs. Melville Orr, one of 33 women widowed when the big vessel broke apart in a Lake Michigan storm last month and left some 50 children fatherless. "Most of the youngsters probably had a bigger Christmas than they ever had in their lives."

Mayor Kenneth Vogelheim described the day as "unbelievable."

Not a child was forgotten. It took weeks of preparation to insure that everything would be just right.

Toy Chicken
Toni Budnick, 2, got a toy chicken. . . Gary Orr, 10, played with a machine gun. . . Michael Kowalski, 6, crawled across a carpet pushing a toy army truck. . . Kathryn Krawczak, 4, fondled a new doll. . . there was everything in the way of toys that a child could ask.

"Christmas was wonderful under the circumstances," said John Blasky, a bank president and member of a committee administering a disaster fund for the families.

A firm in Grand Rapids that asked to be kept anonymous sent boxes of clothing. Another company sent enough to outfit every child.

"Gifts of toys came in by busloads and truckloads," Blasky said. "The children had two or three times as many gifts as they could carry and still some boxes had to be stored away for other parties."

Food Baskets
The chamber of commerce at nearby Little Posen sent two huge baskets of food to every family. Each got a turkey plus traditional trimmings.

The Presque Isle county health and welfare fund sent checks of $5 per child and $10 per widow.

And the Bradley ship disaster children's fund, sponsored by the Detroit Times, arranged for group hospital and medical protection to be paid by the fund which now stands at $120,000.

Only two men out of a crew of 35 survived the disaster when the Bradley went down Nov. 18. Twenty-three of the crewmen were from Rogers City, a town of 3,873 high on Lake Huron.

College Official Remains Missing
Marshall, Mo. — (U) — Dr. M. Earle Collins, president of Missouri Valley college, has been missing since early Christmas day.

His wife notified police when he failed to return from Christmas eve church services.

A son-in-law, Jamie Hogue, said "we are not worried about him." He said Dr. Collins, 55, had planned to leave yesterday for Orlando, Fla., where the school's football team plays East Texas State in the Tangerine bowl tomorrow.

However, he had planned to leave on an afternoon train from Kansas City, Hogue said. Dr. Collins apparently changed his mind, and caught an early morning train at Springfield, Mo., instead.

Dr. Collins' car was found near the railroad station in Springfield. Ticket Agent Doyle Jones identified a picture of Dr. Collins as that of a man who produced a Frisco railroad pass for travel to Birmingham. The agent said the man then purchased a ticket from Birmingham to Orlando, showing identification to obtain a ministerial discount. Missouri Valley is a Presbyterian college and Dr. Collins is a church elder.

Redcap Dillard Watson also recognized the picture and said the man had asked him where to find the Orlando car on the train. But Conductor W. E. Wood and Porter Ernest Goodwin who took the train to Memphis said they did not recognize the picture.

Wood said he would remember anyone traveling on a pass.

Nasser's Government Continues Attacks On Reds in Syria

Communists Accused of Being Foes of Arab Nationalism

Cairo — (U) — President Nasser's government today renewed its attack on the communists in the Syrian province of the U.A.R.

Syrian Interior Minister Abdul Hamid Serraj, one of the most influential Syrian officials, said that the reds had become "mouthpieces for the enemies of Arab nationalism."

Nasser launched the attack in a speech Tuesday in which he denounced the Syrian communists and asserted they had opposed the union of Egypt and Syria to form the U.A.R.

(Before Syria's union with Egypt, Serraj was a colonel in charge of Syrian intelligence and was identified as the leader of a military clique friendly to the Soviet Union because the communist bloc was willing to furnish Syria with military aid.)

Spread False Rumors
Serraj told the Cairo paper Al Ahran the communists had discovered that union of Egypt and Syria put an end to their dishonest practices and they had to seek ways and means to recover their lost, illegally obtained gains.

"They therefore had to spread false rumors in a bid to defame those now in authority by going so far as even to blame the union for a scarcity of rain which, however, later came in great abundance as if to foil their sinister designs," Serraj declared.

He said the communists then decided to open hostility. Communists and reactionary forces joined hands in taking a hostile stand against "such beneficial actions as agrarian reform," which was introduced in Syria last fall.

The communists had to criticize "the allegedly unsatisfactory economic situation in Syria, obviously forgetting that prior to unity Syria had no economy," Serraj continued.

Charges Betrayal
The minister said the Syrian communists finally unmasked themselves as "anti-union advocates by alleging that what the Arabs needed was unity and not union."

"Such an appeal against union at this particular juncture was tantamount to betrayal of the cause of Arab nationalism which was thus being stabbed in the back by elements having at heart nothing but obtaining personal benefits," he said.

These communist elements, said Serraj, are "negligible quantities" and added that he felt from contacts with other different classes that they all fully support the present regime.

Fire Sweeps Sawyer School

Firemen Battle Blaze In 18-Degree Below Zero Weather

Exeland, Wis. — (U) — A pre-dawn fire fought in 18-degree below zero weather Wednesday burned out the Exeland district elementary school.

Damage was estimated at between $90,000 and $70,000 by Sawyer county Dep. Sheriff Walter Hajdasz, who said the school had an enrollment of 150 to 160 pupils.

The Exeland volunteer fire department was joined in fighting the blaze by volunteers from the Sawyer and Rusk county communities of Raddison, Courderay and Bruce. The blaze, discovered by a passerby at 6:30 a.m., burned out both the classroom and gymnasium wings, leaving only the concrete block and stone walls and a small portion of the roof.

Didn't Spread
The firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to several nearby business properties and the American Legion clubhouse.

Chief Harold Biese of the Exeland volunteers, said the fire apparently started from defective wiring.

It was the second school fire in the area during the Christmas season in recent years. Several years ago the Windfall school was destroyed by flames during the Christmas vacation.

What Has Such a Strong hold on the attention of these engrossed youngsters? Why, the two little puppets shown in the center photo. The Christmas creatures were among characters in a children's puppet show at the Appleton library. It was written and staged by Miss Patricia Ewen, young people's librarian, on a recent Saturday afternoon. With their books neatly wrapped in plastic bags, Nancy and Kathy Henke, 1618 W. Commercial street, kneel to watch the show, left photo. It's all very serious for Marcia Mitnacht, 1115 S. Lawe street, Kathleen Ligare, 1342 W. Taylor street, and Michelle Martin, 1929 N. These Days France's Fight for Survival Shows Nation's Great Strength

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York —(L'Esprit De France)— "L'Esprit De France" is not a fiction. This nation which rises out of its own flames to shine again as the sun of Europe is unique in its quality, not only to survive, which others have done, but to show its greatest strength at its weakest moment.

Five years ago, France was a beaten nation—beaten not only by the external forces of war but by an inner fatigue so malignant as to be the despair of Europe's friends and the hope of Europe's enemies. Not only was a quarter of the nation presumed to be in the hands of the enemy but so powerful were Moscow's servants in Paris, Thorez, Duclos and their associates, that they dragged toward them all the opportunists who thrive on a nation's misfortunes, who devised a thousand little tricks to put themselves in power. So cheap had become the premiership of France that it was a bargain-counter commodity. But against all this sat and waited the personality of France, Charles DeGaulle. He did not seek power. He did not sign in a single political compromise. He was a country gentleman, one who lived far from the centers of greatness. He knew what France needed; he also knew what France wanted and what was wanted was unworthy. Inflation, excessive leisure, irresponsibility, failure to produce, dependence upon America for subsidies, small things these Frenchmen wanted while mother France lay sick, more soul sick than body sick.

De Gaulle Waited. But De Gaulle waited. To speak too soon would be to inflame the opportunists; to appear too early would raise the cry of Napoleonism. Charles de Gaulle waited. Years and years, he waited not to rule France but to save France and to save Europe.

In the circumstances that faced France, such a figure as Charles de Gaulle could only be called when he was desperately needed. The Algerian crisis brought such a day. For what Algeria came to mean was not the independence of a colony or the loss of a trade area. It came to mean the death of France.

So, in the end, they called upon De Gaulle and the vote was as close to unanimous as it is possible to get by any system of balloting. Charles de Gaulle is no Napoleon Bonaparte who seized power and held it by arms until he fell by arms; he is no Boulanger who emerges to take power and disappears; he is not even a Louis Philippe who bargains here and there to produce a kingdom.

People's Choice. He submitted himself to the people's will and the people's choice. For before De Gaulle could serve France, the French people had to accept the consequences of troubled times. They had to discipline themselves. They had to cast aside the enchanting miseries of inflation, non-productivity, economic dependence, political opportunism. They had to accept a serious outlook upon their own times. They had a great lesson to learn from West Germany for instance, for there is a people that went to work.

And so, now, it is President Charles de Gaulle, first president of the fifth French Republic. A new day has dawned in Europe—this may be a turning point, because nations are imitative and if the De Gaulle experiment of accepting hard times as a fact and meeting them with courage brings France forward as the leader of Europe, who can tell what an effect it will have on the rest of the western world? Certainly, the spectacle of turning the Christmas season in the United States into an orgy of strikes is not as stirring an example of national resurrection.

New Orleans Park Now Desegregated

New Orleans —(AP)— New Orleans City Park, one of the largest municipal parks in the nation, is desegregated.

The board of directors of the 1,427-acre park has bowed to a mandate of the U.S. supreme court after about eight years of litigation. "We have reached the end of the rope," said Ellis Laborde, general manager of the park. "We don't plan to have segregation anywhere in the park."

This includes tennis courts, baseball fields, golf courses, amusement rides and other facilities.

"The swimming pool is closed at this time," Laborde said. "I won't be able to say anything about it. The rides are open on weekends."

"The No. 1 golf course, previously allotted to Negroes on Tuesdays and Fridays, will now be open to white and colored every day of the week."

Laborde said the supreme court denied a rehearing after the final ruling.

New Orleans bus and street car transportation was desegregated last June 1.

West German Group Offers to Build Aswan Dam for UAR

Bonn —(AP)— A West German industrial group, with firms from "other western countries," has made an offer to the United Arab Republic to build the controversial Aswan dam, the government says.

A foreign office spokesman told a news conference the West German firms, which he did not name, offered to contribute 200 million marks ($48 million) to the project.

He declined to name the other countries involved or how much they planned to contribute.

The Aswan project has been a football in world politics since the United States in 1956 withdrew an offer to put up a big chunk of the $2 billion or more needed to build the dam.

The withdrawal prompted Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser to seize the Suez canal, an action that led to the British-French invasion of Egypt two years ago.

Atlas Picks Up, Transmits Another Voice

Young Engineer First Since Ike to Speak From Space

Corona, Calif. — (U) — The young engineer's voice crackled across the heavens: "This is Prado Dam United States army signal research and development laboratory, Corona, Calif. . . ."

Then Sam Fandler read the president's now famous satellite Christmas message. Tumbling through the dark void of space, the orbiting Atlas satellite picked up the transmission and broadcast it back to another tracking station at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. Thus, last Saturday, the voice of the 34-year-old Fandler became the first other than the president's to be broadcast from outer space.

How It Was Done The 34-year-old engineer from Neptune, N. J., told yesterday how it was done. Early in November Fandler headed an 11-man team that moved like a band of well equipped gypsies into the rolling foothills near Prado Dam, about 50 miles southwest of Los Angeles.

Their job: Secretly set up a satellite tracking station and stand ready. On a hillside a few hundred yards from a busy highway, Fandler and his men set up the portable generator, radio direction finder, four large coil antennae and other material needed to track and talk to the satellite.

They managed to brush off questions by occasional passersby. The project remained secret.

The team lived a few miles away in a Corona motel. They avoided the townspeople. There were many pinhole cameras in the motel room. Time dragged.

Waiting Ended Then last week at Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Atlas blasted off with a fiery swoosh. The waiting for Fandler and company had ended. "The satellite arrived over Corona within two minutes of the predicted time and was within one half degree of predicted bearing," said Fandler.

Fandler read the president's Christmas message to the satellite Saturday as one of the station's communication experiments. Since then other messages by voice and teletype code have been transmitted and retransmitted back from the satellite.

The tracking station, one of four, will remain in operation as long as the satellite can broadcast. Then the group will return to Fort Monmouth. They may be sent out on a similar assignment. And if they are it'll be a well kept secret.

Pontiff Makes Visit to Jail

gical act which has moved the entire world," said Gonnella.

The pontiff, wearing a red woolen coat over his usual white robe, replied briefly.

Extends Blessing "I am particularly happy in starting the first year of my pontificate by coming here. I feel it is a duty."

The pope then gave his blessing. He stepped vigorously toward a small group of prisoners in the courtyard who had been kept at a distance from him.

"Please let these men approach," said the pope. Near-

Russia Sees Possible War Over West Berlin

Official western suggestions that discussions of Berlin be linked with reunification of Germany. Backing up Gromyko with a flourish of missiles, the chief of staff of Soviet armed forces said that if the west starts war over Berlin, Russia could reply with crushing blows.

Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky added that "the United States will not succeed in sitting it out on the other side of the ocean with impunity. . . . The Soviet Union has intercontinental rockets, and no oceans can save the United States from retaliation."

Parliament went through the formality of approving Soviet policy on Berlin and also Gromyko's call for a nuclear test ban.

The foreign minister contributed one new note, saying that under a ban the Soviet Union would agree to a limited number of nuclear explosions for peaceful purposes provided Russia was allowed as many as the United States and Britain combined. Some U.S. scientists have urged dejection of any ban which would prevent such experimental uses of nuclear blasts as digging harbors.

Parliament also approved the naming of a veteran communist party administrator, Alexander N. Shelepin, as top Russian policeman. As chairman of the state committee for security, he succeeds Gen. Ivan Serov, a career secret policeman who was removed Dec. 8 Serov's new assignment was not announced.

The 40-year-old Shelepin is one of the younger administrators whom Khrushchev has brought up through the party apparatus. Giving him control of the secret police seemed to indicate that Khrushchev intends to keep closer party control of the police, which Stalin used as his personal tool.

Liberalize Penal Code The supreme soviet also adopted a liberalized new penal code that follows the Anglo-Saxon principle of placing the burden of proof on the defendant. The code restricts the number of crimes punishable by death although keeping a high definition of one, high treason. It makes any form of war propaganda a crime. Deportation and deprivation of citizenship were eliminated as criminal punishments.

The parliament had earlier approved a new budget giving more money to industry, scientific research, education and social welfare. It accepted Khrushchev's program to make youths work while getting high school education and above.

Khrushchev did not speak during the 4-day session. He just sat and watched his programs go through without comment.

At one cell he asked: "What do you think of my visit here?"

The prisoner replied with tears in his eyes. "It has made today the most memorable day of my life," he said.

"Of mine too," replied Pope John.

The pontiff and his party left an hour and a half after they had entered the jail.

Later it was announced that Pope John had given prison authorities several million lire to buy Christmas presents for Regina Coeli's inmates — another first in the jail's history. A million lire is worth $1,600.

Byrnes Says He Will Not Join Liberals country great—it seems to me that the people generally would want that continued.

"This is not standpatism. Certainly we should make changes. But not make changes just for the sake of a change."

Referring to proposals for new and expanded government programs in various fields, Byrnes said:

"Big spending has to mean big debt and big taxes or a combination of the two. Both taxes and debt are bound to be a depressant upon a private enterprise economy."

Can't Match Spending Byrnes said if the real meaning of the Nov. 4 election was that the people want greatly expanded government programs "then I think that private enterprise will be rather short-lived."

Nothing could be accomplished by the Republican party, Byrnes said, for its members in and out of congress to advocate matching "the spending programs of some of the northern Democrats."

Byrnes, a member of the lawwriting house ways and means committee, takes the position that holding down government expenditures and balancing the budget will keep the national economy strong and curb inflation.

"Free spending by the socialism or communism," he said.

For the Children, Christmas Brings Toys, Joys...And Finally Exhaustion

Comforting Coos come from Cindy Deschler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Deschler, 520 S. Lee street, as she daintily feeds her Christmas doll. A toy tiger brings a bit of consternation to Richard Bodoh, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bodoh, 1503 N. Morrison street. The young man, just 1 year old today, probably never saw one before. And the three children of the Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Simon, 615 E. Glendale avenue, seem to be having a very cheerful Christmas as they look over their gifts. The youngsters, from left, are Lois, Henry and Jimmy.

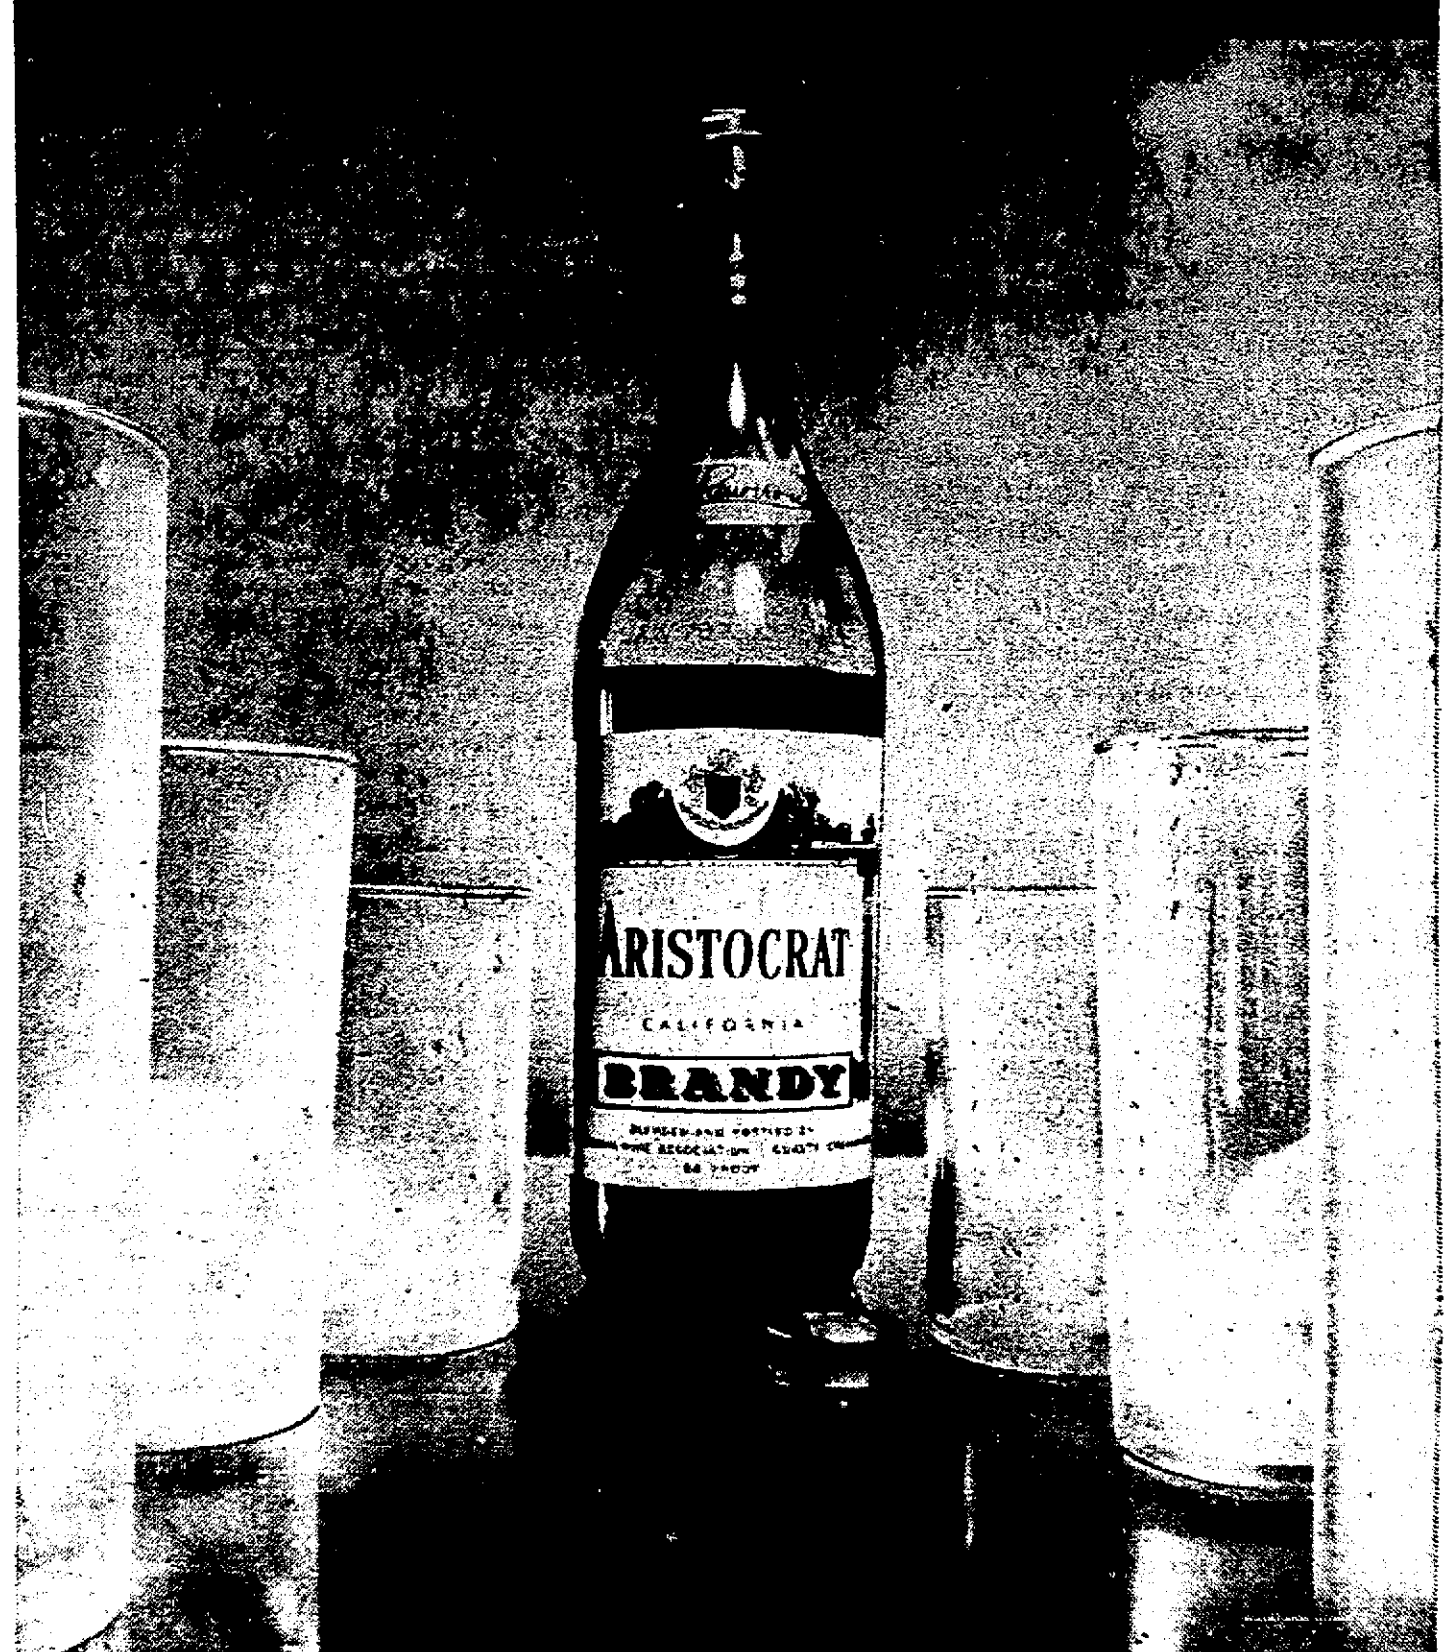

Methodist Bishop at Home for Christmas

Boy, 13, Gets Yule Wish, Sees Family

Toledo, Ohio — The LaPlante family returned home today—"awfully happy but minutes but it was wonderful"—after a pleasant visit. "We're with their 13-year-old son in a awfully happy but tired." The family got to their home in Toledo, completing the nearly 500-mile round trip, at about 5 a. m. today. "Seeing his brother Ed was a big surprise. Chucky always loved the uniform and Ed looked so nice in his marine blues," the mother said. Mrs. LaPlante indicated her son may be able to come home in February. She said they discussed new type braces and shoes he would have to wear.

Forty-Nine, Make It Fifty

When Congress convenes in January Hawaii will start anew its campaign for statehood. This is nothing new for either Hawaii or for Congress. The Hawaiian Legislature first petitioned Congress for statehood in 1903. During the intervening 55 years, 21 hearings have been held on the matter and the published record of hearings and reports now totals 33 volumes, with 6,450 pages of printed testimony. All of the reports have been favorable.

Lorrin P. Thurston, publisher of the Honolulu Advertiser and chairman of the Hawaii Statehood commission, has announced the opening of the new campaign as cheerfully and hopefully as if it were the first effort in that direction. The recent acceptance of Alaska as a state has offered much encouragement to the Hawaiians for, as they put it, that action has swept away once and for all the myth of noncontiguity as a bar to statehood. They are willing to argue also that no territory seeking admission as a state has ever met so completely the requirements of statehood or has been in such sound financial position to pay its way in every respect.

The Hawaiians argue that their territory has a gross product of $2 billions, pays more federal taxes than 10 states, has a greater earning per capita than 25 of the states, and thus should become a substantial member of the Union immediately. The population, which was 499,794 in 1950, is estimated today at 600,000 which indicates a tremendous growth. While military spending by the U.S. government constitutes its largest "industry", it has also huge sugar and pineapple industries which provide thousands of jobs and millions of dollars of income for the islanders. Contrary to popular supposition the tourist business, while important, is fourth in line as a producer of income. Tourism, however, is in for a great expansion in the opinion of many, especially since the advent of jet airliners will bring Hawaii far closer to the mainland in terms of the time needed to get there.

Those are all things to be considered with the proposal to make Hawaii the fiftieth state. But there are other matters, too. Southerners who favored statehood for Alaska will fight desperately against Hawaii because of the fear that the multi-racial character of its people will encourage "racial mixing" here. But as the promoters of the Hawaiian plan point out, the people of the United States appear to be heartily in favor of the fiftieth state. This is indicated by a national opinion poll as well as polls conducted in congressional districts, all of which appear to show that sentiment for admission of Hawaii is today at an all-time high.

We think the people who were enthusiastic over the favorable action on Alaska largely have the same attitude toward Hawaii, not only because Hawaii in all respects is ready for statehood, but also as a mere matter of fairness to the people of Hawaii who are as loyal and deserving as the people of any state in the Union.

What's Going on in China?

The press and radio releases from Red China repeat over and over again that the change in role for Mao Tse-tung is not a kick upstairs preliminary to springing the trap door. But the outside world must wonder whether the history of the Communist party in Russia is now about to be repeated in China. People like Mao don't step down willingly until they are ready to be buried.

There are rumors that Khrushchev engineered the switch after Mao didn't go along with all of the Kremlin's suggestions on how to make communism stick. But it is more likely that trouble within China itself, carefully hushed up, is the basic reason.

In any nation, but particularly in one controlled by a totalitarian regime, there are two ways to get around dissatisfaction at home. One is to build up the dangers of outside intervention even to the extent of declaring war on someone. The other is to find a scapegoat at home. Apparently even the state of war with the Nationalist Chinese has not served to unite those on the mainland and we may now suspect that the renewed attacks on Quemoy and Matsu this fall may have been part of this attempt to get the minds of the peasants off the communes. Failing this, the apparent strong man of the country gets a pink slip.

Combined with the announcement of the change for Mao, the Red Chinese have bombarded the country with emphasis on the communes as "fresh as the morning sun above the broad horizon of East Asia." But there was a revolt on one of the islands last month which was quickly and ruthlessly put down. And the residents of Tibet have so far successfully avoided the commune system. Certainly in the rest of China, which had the family as a basic unit for centuries, the commune system must be bitterly resented.

Whenever a communist country starts talking about "good hearted people from our own ranks" who are misled by something or other, it means there is dissension and trouble. For the free world, every communist who gets his walking papers for the dungeons even via the "change of status" route, is a sign of another Red failure.

Sen. Morse and the Disloyal Caretaker

Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon has discharged a 66-year-old part-time caretaker on his farm "because he had not been loyal to my friendship."

The senator denies that this action was caused by the fact that the $1-an-hour employee of 25 years standing is a Republican. He does, however, admit that the caretaker's expression of strong differences with the senator's political views was fatal to "loyalty and friendship."

Morse no doubt acted within his rights as a private employer to dispense with the services of an employee, however unjust the discharge may appear to others.

Let us assume that instead of the liberal Morse (much more liberal with public than with his personal funds, apparently) a conservative Republican had fired an old retainer on no better grounds than that the latter was an outspoken Democrat.

Would not then Sen. Morse be in the van of those who would loudly denounce the oppressor and champion the downtrodden, helpless victim of a heartless capitalist?

The caretaker said his dismissal came as the result of a remark to the senator complimentary to President Eisenhower after a political speech by Morse last October.

The Register Guard of Eugene, Ore., indicates that the senator himself was responsible for giving the incident national publicity. The paper received this telegram from Morse:

I am amused by your story that I discharged an employee because he supported President Eisenhower. If you had quoted the entire letter that I wrote that employee instead of excerpting out of context, you would have been journalistically fair.

I did not dispense with my employee's services because he was a Republican, as I pointed out in my letter to him. I dispensed with his services because he had not been loyal to my friendship.

"Out of context" is almost as much of a standby for many politicians as "I was misquoted." In this case, however, it seems to have backfired, for the newspaper says that until then it had not published anything about the incident!

Just to help keep the record straight, the discharged caretaker attributed this to Morse in his letter:

I'm very sorry it has become necessary to end our working relationship. However, I have found from experience that when one has such strong differences with my political views which you expressed to others, loyalty and friendship is sacrificed.

Killer in White

Probably no phenomenon is written about in more ecstatic terms than the miracle of snow.

This is as it should be, for certainly there is beauty in the flakes which transform a city into a fabulous forest of white.

We are prone, however, to forget one thing: snow can kill you. Softly, gently, it can snuff out your life.

It is not our purpose to destroy the picture of snow's beauty. We wish only to warn of its Lorelei-like character. Packed hard on a highway it can be a factor in sending an automobile careening out of control. When whipped by howling winds the flakes become steel-tipped pellets stinging all in its path.

When it catches the weak far from shelter it will batter, bend and, at last, bring them down and then go on leaving behind a quiet mound to mark its terrible work.

This is the white killer. He is cunning, traveling on cat's feet and we are lulled by the beauty of his coming. In the woods hunters gaze into dancing flames rejoicing even as the killer caresses the area about them.

He clogs the road to camp. He buries their supply of wood. He seals them off from all humanity and, at last, moves on leaving behind a scene of ghastly, ghostly white.

Snow is one of nature's most enchanting gifts. It is well to remember, however, that treachery may lurk beneath its comely face.

Charges Dog Shot and Dragged Back Onto Owner's Property

Editor, Post-Crescent:

An open letter to the Meanest Man in Appleton.

Why did you kill our dog? If you had to kill him, why did you drag his poor mutilated body with a bullet hole in his chest back to my home in the dead of night and hide it under a tree?

You knew where the dog belonged — you must know me. What have I ever done to you that would make you want me to discover the crushed and bruised body of my pet?

You must know, too, that the dog belonged to my son who is away at college. Possibly you don't know that this dog would sit for hours at the door awaiting the return of his master. Would you like to be the one to tell my son the gruesome details of his pet's death?

It would have been so much easier if I could have said the dog disappeared. What kind of a twisted mind do you have? You had your revenge. You killed the dog. I might even forgive you for that, but I shall never forgive you for allowing a woman, to see the horrible results of your madness.

I saw where you had dragged the dog's body quite a distance before you found a suitable hiding place. You have shouted to the world, "Look how brave I am! I want a widow to see what I have done to her son's dog."

Writer Asks If She Can Have Last Word

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Reply to letter in People's Forum 12-19-58 by Rev. Andrew Van Groll, O. F. M. Cap.

I was honored at the length of your reply (12-19-58) to my reply (12-16-58) to your reply (12-12-58) to the article in the Post-Crescent (12-4-58) about a meeting of the Humane Society. And since you say that this is your last communication on this subject, the opportunity of having the last word is more than I can resist.

Not wishing to lose sight of the original issue, which is the humane treatment of animals in our community, I wish to add only that the State of Wisconsin Charter of the Outagamie County Humane Society in its Articles of Organization, Feb. 1, 1929, reads as follows:

Article First: . . . the business and purpose of (this) corporation shall be to aid in the enforcement of the laws for the prevention and punishment of cruelty to animals, children, women, aged or dependent people or criminals, to promote humane education of both children and adults . . . and to exercise such powers as come within the jurisdiction of a humane society.

Article Fifth: . . . The principal duties of the county humane agent shall be to investigate complaints of cruelty and neglect, to seek to prevent, and in proper cases to cause to be punished, persons who violate the humane laws of the state . . .

And in my dictionary it says that "humane" means characterized by tenderness and compassion for the suffering or distressed. (Signed) "A picturesque protest against the mere existence of common sense"

Contradictions in State Government

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — A provocative subject for the sideline critic of public affairs is the strange contradiction in values in a governmental system.

The Wisconsin state administration abounds with examples.

A legislative interim committee, with a good will that is as obvious as the unfavorable prospects, is trying to gather support for an appropriation to build a small and experimental hospital for the treatment of emotionally unstable children.

At the same time a highway administrator talks about building a couple of million dollars worth of comfort stations on the new superhighways, and not an eyelash in the audience is stirred.

State traffic patrolmen tour their beats in expensive new cars, while a distinguished university professor works in an "office" cubbyhole that would be scorned by the village insurance sales apprentice.

The conservation commission buys a couple of thousands of acres of marshlands at a sitting, on a subordinate's say-so, for fancy prices, while the welfare department dieticians figure out food standards for indigents down to the last one egg measure.

THE CLASHES

The architects busily plan more brick and mortar improvements for the division of mental hygiene, while the institution superintendents wring their hands in dismay about the shortage of doctors and other people without whose services these institutions are no more useful than dormitories.

The regents of the state educational institutions worry about housing for married students, while all over Wisconsin there are young people who are pinning for a chance to enroll in their schools, while postponing the privilege of a spouse.

A state agency will hold down salaries for its creative, energetic workers, while wasting money on luxuries that have no relation to the quality of its service.

These contradictions go to the heart of good government, and as government becomes ever larger and ever more difficult for the elected policymakers to comprehend, it becomes a more challenging problem.

How to distribute the dollar extracted forcibly from the body politician to give assurance that it will be spent in the most fruitful way?

Even allowing for inevitable differences of taste, the division is now haphazard in the extreme. The legislature makes only the most casual stab at it. With rare exceptions, governors in framing their own appropriation recommendations are guessing. The best of them admit it.

THE NEED

The need is for perspective, a capacity for seeing the governmental system as a whole, without sentiment and without prejudice.

If may be that no man or group of men is wise enough, or if wise enough, skilled enough to persuade the public, of the need for revisions of some of these rigidities frozen into public budgets.

The important thing is that it isn't being tried. In a system as big as that of the state government — now spending well over a billion dollars a year — appropriations are typically fixed in a vacuum, without relation to each other. In a complex as vast as the national government the familiar observer can only shudder at the probabilities.

Public money is spent for publicizing a university basketball team, while somewhere a case-worker trims a dependent mother's assistance budget . . . A contract is let for planting flowering shrubs along a highway right-of-way, while the student loan fund is exhausted. . . One department sends its men to pleasurable conventions in distant places in bunches, while another can't find the money to send even one . . . The state buys marshes for the comfort of muskrats and mallards, while the prison wardens stack their charges in hall bunks . . .

Violence on TV Turns Back Clock

From the Greenwood, S.C. Index-Journal

Those people too young to remember Parkyarkarkas missed out on one of the wonderful eras of entertainment. Harry Einstein, who played the part, died recently in Hollywood.

It seems like another world — and maybe it was — to recall the moments of pleasure as an entire family gathered around the radio and casually listened to the antics of Eddie Cantor and the Greek funnymen. Parents did not have to cringe at the brutality, the lapse of good taste in commercials and programs and other factors which sometimes go to make family TV viewing a rather unpleasant experience.

The blood and sadism displayed on TV screens these days is disturbing, to say the least. This past summer the National Association for Better Radio and Television reported: "The networks have taken the lead from the independent broadcasters in presenting death and sadism on the programs which reach millions of youngsters each week." Its survey of one week this past summer recorded 221 killings, 192 attempted murders, to say nothing of the robberies, kidnappings and attempted lynchings that made up the remainder of TV's tableau of violence.

This is a return to the days of public hangings in the United States, or back to the Elizabethan days in England when people rode out to the gibbets to see the bodies swaying or to the prisons to see the prisoners flogged.

Democrats Disturbed by Ike's Proposal

Call Drive to Balance Budget Dishonest, Political

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Naturally the radical Democrats are disturbed at the administration's drive to cut expenses, and are pooh-poohing the idea of a balanced budget. So they call President Eisenhower's proposal dishonest and political.

Lawrence
Statesmen would comment differently — praising the objective and pledging themselves to carry it out. But the political game is one of taking opposite positions — for opposition's sake — no matter how worthy the objective. Sen. Byrd of Virginia, conservative Democrat, reacted as a statesman. He is all in favor of the idea of a balanced budget and will do his utmost to keep expenditures down.

The big question today is whether the administration has overestimated the amount of money that will be taken in during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1959. The government must overcome the deficit of $12 billion in receipts which it has been running during the present fiscal year. First of all the expenses have been cut by $2,200,000,000. This means that somewhere between nine and ten billions has to be collected in taxes which isn't being collected now.

From authoritative sources this correspondent has obtained information on how the receipts were estimated and there is every indication that the treasury has been conservative in its figures. In fact, it looks like a possible cash surplus, provided congress co-operates in holding expenses down and in voting the postal rate increases and gasoline taxes requested by the president.

Realistic Basis
The basis for estimating the future receipts is a realistic one. It takes into account that in 1954, when there was a dip in the economy, the recovery movement in the nation brought in far more revenues than is sought now. It is necessary to collect about 10 billions above the 67 billions being collected at present to reach the 77 billions needed for the balanced budget. The gross national output has gone up 27 billions in the last twelve months. This indicates that the recovery movement is comparable to what it was in 1954 and 1955.

Already Chairman Wilbur Mills of the house ways and means committee that handles taxes is predicting receipts of between 75 and 78 billions from existing tax rates. The administration is counting, however, on only 76.5 billions from previous tax rates and also is expecting about $400,000,000 from the new taxes on special kinds of income such as insurance companies and cooperatives, as well as about $100,000,000 from the so-called user's tax on government services.

Thus, the goal of 77 billions seems to be in reach. All this estimating is predicated on a continuance of the mood of business that has prevailed in the last three months, but there is a psychological stimulus likely in the next few months which can give business an even bigger lift. This is related primarily to the stabilization of prices. Many plans for capital goods expenditures by private business have been shelved heretofore because of the fear of a higher price level. If, however, the budget is to be balanced, money will be more plentiful for borrowers. Likewise, if the administration can make some move to check the irresponsible strikes and exorbitant demands for higher wages, it would hearten businessmen on every side.

Cost of Living Up
It is to be noted that the government's bureau of labor statistics has just announced another increase in the cost of living—a peak for all time. The head of the steel workers union says wages have been chasing prices. But the government's index shows that it is in the auto field that prices have been forced upward. This, in turn, is due to wage demands by auto workers. Also, as the cost of living index goes up, the wage level goes up automatically in many industries. The

"And Moses was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."

—Exodus 2:21

When Moses was forced to flee from Egypt because he had killed a slave driver who was beating a Hebrew workman, he took refuge in Midian.

This was a country extending from the northeast shores of the Dead Sea, far into the Arabian peninsula. Like any weary traveler, he paused at a well to rest and refresh himself with a cool drink. It was while he was there that he first met Zipporah.

She and her six sisters had brought their flocks to the well for their daily watering. But some rude shepherds who had arrived first, would not allow the girls to bring their sheep near the well.

Young Moses immediately came to the girls' rescue. He not only defied the shepherds, but he even helped the girls fill the troughs to water their flocks.

As he did so, he singled out Zipporah, whose voice—even in anger—had the sweet tone of a dove. After the painted faces of the Egyptian court, the simple beauty of her outdoor countenance refreshed him, like the cool water of the well.

Perhaps he thought to himself: here is this country's heart, the sweet life of contentment. Trust in God, for this child, is joy in the morning, and the distant tinkle of the ram's bell. God descends with the rain, and He is inhaled with the fragrant smell of the harvest.

And shyly averting her eyes from the stranger, no doubt Zipporah was moved to thoughts of her own: Many men have done me good turns. But this one is different. There is kindness in him; but there is strength and terrible power, like the lightning behind clouds.

When the girls arrived home, their father asked: "How is it that ye are come so soon today?"

Then they told him of the kind Egyptian who had helped them at the well.

"Where is he?" said their father, a little annoyed that they had not shown hospitality to the kind stranger. "Call him that he may eat bread."

So Moses came to Zipporah's house. "And Moses was content to live with the man: and he gave Moses Zipporah his daughter."

Dec. 26, 1958

wage-price spiral is operating now to weaken the purchasing power of the dollar. The consumer index is 23.9 per cent above the average of prices ten years ago and more than double what prices were in 1939.

High administration officials feel that a balanced budget is a compass by which to steer in the uncharted seas of inflation and rising prices. Many things the government buys are rising in price and it is hard to keep expenses down when the price level itself is soaring. "Any time a nation lets its people believe," said a high official of the government, "that the way to make money is to spend more, and that to speculate is to save, there can only be trouble ahead."

Advisers of the administration today are conservative in their estimates. They have cut needless expenditures and are proposing a balanced budget at 77 billions, but they are providing, nevertheless, the highest amounts ever spent in peacetime for national defense. Will the radical Democrats tear it all down next January, and reduce further the purchasing power of the dollar? The responsibility now is on the Democratic majority in the senate and house which takes over the legislative power next month.

Christmas Shoppers Set Record for Valley

Merchants See All-Time Yule Buying Mark in Fox Cities This Season

Fox Cities merchants, exuberant over results of Christmas buying, see the season as an all-time record breaker. All merchants have expressed pleasure with the shopping season and say volume was considerably more than last year—a record breaking year itself.

One store manager, who wouldn't say it was the best year ever, indicated this season was better than the last three years and stated he was very happy with the results.

The weekend before Christmas, was the heaviest shopping period of the season, although preceding weekends were excellent, also, merchants said.

Shopping also was exceptionally good today, store managers pointed out, as shoppers took advantage of post-Christmas sales.

Chilton — A 5-day circuit court trial, longest in recent years, resulted in awarding of judgments totaling $62,000, largest ever made here.

The case concerned a 2-car crash April 29, 1957, in which Miss Carmen Vollmer, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Vollmer, Hil-bert, was killed and three other teenagers were injured.

Mails Down This Year

Volume Slightly Less for Annual Christmas Rush

A final tally of figures at the Appleton Post office for the period of Dec. 8 to 24 shows total mail volume was slightly lower than last year's total. This year there were 1,534,700 units of outgoing mail. The figure for last year is 1,600,000.

The post office received 2,647,000 units of incoming mail, a figure slightly lower than last year's 2,670,000. Postmas-ter Francis Sumnicht says that several thousand Christ-mas cards were mailed Wed-nesday evening or Christmas day.

Dead letters totaled approx-imately 20,000, an estimated $2,600 loss when considering the average cost of a card and postage.

On Wednesday there were 1,124 outgoing parcels, a drop from last year's figure of 3,149 for the same day. Only 876 in-coming parcels were received on the day before Christmas.

The postmaster said he ex-pects a heavy volume of ad-vertising third class mail be-tween today and Jan. 1 due to the increase in postal rates which will be effective on the first of the year. He added that additional workers may be held over from the staff of Christmas help to assist in handling the expected influx.

Court Rules Of Decorum Start Jan. 1

Cover Lawyers' Conduct, Judges' Wearing of Robes

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—What the board of circuit judges call "rules of decorum" will become effective with the new year in the circuit courtrooms of the state.

The principal change that will be noted by the general public will be the wearing of judicial robes by the judges while they are presiding on the bench. The state supreme court has traditionally used robes, but the plan is new for the trial courts.

The new rules were adopted by the board of circuit judges in orders that will be effective Jan. 1.

The rules include several covering the method and conduct of lawyers in the courtroom, including one which provides:

No Leaning
"Lawyers may never lean upon the bench nor appear to engage the court in a manner which would lessen the dignity of the proceedings in the eyes of the jury and the public."

Another rule says that as the judge enters the courtroom, the bailiff or clerk will require all present to rise and stand, as the bailiff or clerk says when the judge reaches the bench:

"Hear ye! Hear ye! Hear ye! The circuit court for the county of—is now open. Silence is commanded."

Lawyers and other court officials are expected to wear coats in the courtroom, unless in special circumstances the judge excuses them.

Bar Association To Present Citation To Judge Schmiede

Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede Jan. 14 at the annual meeting of the Outagamie County Bar association will be given a citation from the American Bar association for progress in improvement of traffic court practices and procedures.

It is the third such citation the court has received. Last year the bar association presented Judge Schmiede with a plaque for his court's work.

Judge Schmiede's court also was rated best in its class in the nation by the National Safety Council.

Earlier this year the National Press Photographers' association awarded a citation to Judge Schmiede for "his courageous challenge to forces that would stifle our liberties of speech, expression and publication."

In Good Taste Groom Is Introduced In Line

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Since my fiancé is from another state he does not know many of my relatives and friends, and will not have the opportunity of meeting them before the wedding. Should I introduce him to the guests while standing in the receiving line, and if so how do I go about this? Or do you think it would be better to wait until later when mingling with the guests to introduce him?

Answer: You introduce him to the guests as they come up to you in the receiving line, saying, "John, this is Aunt Mary," to an acquaintance, "Mrs. Jones, this is John" or very formally, "Mrs. Smith, may I present my husband?"

Birth Announcements
Dear Mrs. Post: A group of friends were discussing the sending of birth announcements to friends who had been invited to a stork shower. Some of them said it was perfectly proper to send them, but others said it was a bid for another present and that it was not proper to send them to those who already gave presents at the shower. I would appreciate knowing what is correct in this situation.

Answer: You send birth announcements to all who you think will be interested whether or not they were at the shower. Those who have already given a present are certainly not expected to give another.

Send No Gift
Dear Mrs. Post: Within the next two weeks my employer's wife is going to have a baby. My problem is this—should I, or should I not, send a baby gift? I have worked for my employer almost two years. I have talked to his wife several times on the telephone but I have never met her. I want to do what is proper. Can you help me?

Answer: Congratulate your employer when the baby is born but do not send a gift when you do not know the mother well.

Mrs. Kirk Douglas Was Sure She Wouldn't Marry Movie Star

Hollywood — Mrs. Kirk Douglas is a girl who swore she never would fall for a movie star.

"His first remark was, 'Are you any good at housekeeping?' I didn't know whether this was a proposal or what, but I said I knew the rudiments. The poor man was really in a bad way. He couldn't speak much French and he didn't know what to do about getting a staff for his apartment."

"He asked me if I would find him a cook, a maid and a cleaning woman for his apartment and tell them what to do. I said — 'I'll take the job.'"

Horse Dies, Age Estimated at 50

El Cajon, Calif. — The day a horse name Fleet died, Dr. Randall Knox said the animal must have been 50 years old.

Dr. Knox has owned the horse for 20 years and said he was told it was born the day the United States navy's Great White fleet sailed into San Diego bay. That was in 1908. Veterinarians say the average life of a well cared for horse is 20 years.

British Lose Battle of Giving Christmas Shillings

London — The annual war of nerves with the British dustmen, postmen and holiday carolers has been fought and as usual lost.

New strategy is needed. The way to beat the Boxing day and caroling racket is to spend the Christmas and the New Year holidays somewhere else. Next year, Tierra Del Fuego, here we come.

In Britain, the day after Christmas is known as Boxing day. This is the day when the people who serve you throughout the year—such as your newsboy—come around with a box. Only now they don't wait until the day after, they come around the day before Christmas.

You are expected to put money in the box.

The borough council, which hires the dustmen (or garbage collectors), frowns on this practice. Nevertheless on Dec. 24 the doorbell always rings and there stands the head dustman.

He has a clipboard holding a list of the addresses at which he and his crew pick up garbage. His pencil is poised expectantly over yours.

A born coward, you have visions of overflowing, odoriferous garbage cans throughout 1959. You give him 10 shillings ($1.40).

As the day proceeds you also give:

The postman 10 shillings. The newsboy 5 shillings. Your window cleaner 10 shillings.

Your neighborhood handyman who mows the lawn 10 shillings.

The laundry staff 10 shillings.

The butcher boy 5 shillings.

Caroling Service

Night falls. The two small children are asleep. The doorbell rings. The two small children are instantly awake and wailing.

There also is wailing at the door. This comes from a group of children, aged 9 to 11, singing "Noel, Noel," or rather three boys and one girl are singing, while two other girls provide an obbligato of giggles.

You fork over half a crown (35 cents). Seconds later you realize this is madness, but it's too late now. Word spreads through the neighborhood.

The doorbell rings a second time just as you get the children back to sleep. More "Noel, Noel," another half a crown. You go through this a third time, and a fourth.

When the bell rings for the fifth time you leap out of your chair as though harpooned from the rear.

"Don't you dare strike those poor little children!" warns your wife.

"I'm not going to strike the carolers," you reply. "I'm going to dismantle the doorbell!"

This is done. Briefly? There is peace. Then the liv-

Your Problems

Daughter Would Like to See Dad With Second Wife Absent

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Two years ago my father left my mother to marry a much younger woman who I must admit is pretty.

I miss my father very much and am always excited when he calls and invites me to dinner and a movie. I keep hoping we will be alone so we can have a nice talk. But it never turns out that way. He always has his new wife along.

She never says much, but the fact that she is there spoils my evening. I've tried to like her but I just can't.

feel like a big hypocrite because to me she's always been the woman who broke my mother's heart and ruined our family life.

Do I have the right to ask my father to leave her at home when he invites me out? My mother has asked me to try to overcome my bitter feelings, but I just can't. Please advise me. I am 16 years old.—Pat.

Dear Pat. If you find it impossible to accept your father's new wife handle the situation tactfully, like this:

Drop him a note (at his place of business) and say you'd appreciate it if next time you could talk with him privately. At the next meeting explain your consideration with him precious and would he please save it just for you. He should understand.

DEAR ANN: Seven months ago I had a baby girl out of wedlock. I gave her up for adoption. When the social worker questioned me for the record I lied about the real father. He is a married man, well known in the community and I wanted to protect him.

Instead, I gave the name of a former boy friend. He lives in town but his family is not prominent. I didn't think it would hurt as all the information is kept strictly confidential.

Lately my conscience has been bothering me. Do you think I ought to go back and tell the social worker I lied? Under no circumstances will I give her the real name.—Guilty.

Strange that you displayed such nobility of spirit in behalf of a scoundrel and on the other hand you did some innocent guy the cruel injustice of naming him when you knew you were lying in your teeth.

By all means tell the social worker you lied. If you don't wish to name the real father, O.K. but get the innocent man off the hook.

DEAR ANN: Last week my husband asked me to make a dinner date with a new couple in town. We are redecorating our home but I agreed to invite them to be our guests at a nice eating place.

When we met at this steak house I was shocked to see they'd brought their two children, 8 and 10 years of age. We have two children also, but left ours at home.

The kids ran all over, fought with each other at the table and boomed in on the adult conversation. They ordered large steaks and didn't eat one fourth of what was on their plates. The total bill was $28 and my husband was boiling.

I'd like to know if you feel they were justified in bringing their children. Also, what should have been done about the children's food?—D.H.

You should have made it clear that the invitation meant adults only. Apparently they misunderstood.

The mother should not have permitted her children to order large steaks. Mothers know how much their children can eat. The woman was inconsiderate and boorish and unfortunately, she is rearing her children to be the same.

Our Children

Big Frame an Asset, Not Handicap, States Patri

BY ANGELO PATRI

Bigness is usually looked on with favor. A big car, a big house, a big fortune, a big business—who ever deplored any of these? But when it comes to bigness in children some people just can't seem to accept it for what it is, an asset.

A big child who is in sound health of body and mind is in luck. He will have a commanding presence by and by. That is a great asset. He will have strength of body and more than likely, power of mind.

By big we do not mean fat. We mean the child who has a big frame, who is tall and weighs proportionately. This child is more than likely to be a gifted child and he should be carefully watched, encouraged and helped to make the best of his gifts.

Many Problems

Too often this child is at a great disadvantage. The shops have no clothes to fit him. The school furniture is too small for him. He is made to feel peculiar, quite out of things because so many times he cannot get his long legs comfortably settled. He is so tall that the teacher puts him at the back of the room so his height will not interfere with the others who might be sitting behind him. He is always put at the end of the line and again he is conspicuous.

The big child needs encouragement. Too often he is made to feel his size to be a handicap. Make bigness in healthy children something of a gift in itself. Tell them that it promises more power physically and mentally. Tell them that bigness will give them more endurance so they will be able to do more, hold on longer, and arrive at their goals sooner and in better form.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

How Do You Know It's Right?

Things look so different in the store from what they do at home. How can you be sure of the right one when choosing a wallpaper, a fabric or the color of paint?

Ability to visualize is of immeasurable value. Nothing matches it for the creating of a successful room with a saving in time and trouble — money, too, because almost every home furnishings mistake is a costly one.

How do you visualize? Don't leave it up to imagination. Make sure as nearly as possible by trying paper, fabric and paint on the room. Begin to avoid mistakes at the store. In the case of wallpaper, look at the samples from a distance as well as close up, and on the vertical, which is the way they will be seen. Ask for the largest sample the dealer will give you. Take it home and pin it up on the walls, first on one and then on another, because light in the room hits different walls differently.

This is even more necessary with a paint color. The paint samples flat on the counter can only give a clue as to what the color will look like in the room. The planes of wall hit directly by light from a window will look much different. Paint a sample board and try it on the walls, one by one. Mix to change the paint until the sample seems right, then paint patches of the color on the various walls for more study.

Large samples of fabric to take home are seldom available, but some measure of assurance comes from a particularly thoughtful appraisal of the fabric in the store. If the fabric is for draperies, don't judge it by the way it looks flat on the bolt. Again, it will never be seen that way. Pick up an end length of the fabric and drape it against the counter, to make sure you know how the fabric will look hanging in folds. It isn't at all rash to buy a half yard of fabric for experiment if there is doubt about its rightness — and your ability to visualize. The money for it isn't wasted if the fabric proves successful, nor is it when it proves that this choice for the room is wrong, thus avoiding a costly mistake. Pin fabric samples to present draperies or curtains to see how the light strikes them and how they go with other furnishings and to furniture that is to be slip-covered or reupholstered.

Take your time about making decisions. Live with the sample a day or two and it will either reassure you or change your mind.

10 Resolutions for Home Handyman

Working Around House Can be Easier, Safer by Following Few Fundamentals for Do-It-Yourself

BY ANDREW C. LANG

There's something about a new year that encourages the belief that things are going to be different. And so we decide to help matters along by pledging to make certain changes in our way of life.

There's not a home handyman anywhere who does everything the way he knows it should be done. There probably never will be. But working around the house can be a lot easier — and safer — if certain fundamentals are observed. With that idea in mind, here are some suggested resolutions for the home handyman for the year 1959:

1. I will take my time on whatever I am doing, knowing that nearly all the mistakes I have made in the past in the workshop were the result of unnecessary haste.

2. I will clean a paint brush each time it is used, because I have heard that 90 per cent of the brushes used by amateurs are discarded, through neglect, long before they are worn out.

3. I will not overload existing electrical circuits with heavy-duty power machines but will have an electrician add an extra line to take care of the added drain on the power.

4. I will keep an airtight metal container in the workshop and will put all paint and oil rags in the container if they can not be disposed of immediately.

5. I will use the recommended blade guards on table saws and similar power tools and will not engage in a running conversation with anyone while using any of the machines.

6. I will talk any and all openings inside and outside the house while they are still small and before they can cause serious damage.

7. In hanging wallpaper, putting up ceiling materials and laying floor tiles, I will not assume the walls and window frames are straight, will check them to be certain the completed job is not out of line.

8. I will never use lacquer or any other volatile material where there is not sufficient ventilation and will, in fact, endeavor to do all such work outdoors.

9. I will get into the habit of making periodic inspections of gutters, downspouts and all other drainage facilities.

10. I will realize that the manufacturer of a particular product has made extensive tests to determine how it best can be used — and I will therefore follow his recommendations.

Stop, Think Before You Plant Tree

Live Evergreen Christmas Tree May Grow Large

BY GEORGE E. CREED

Two things frequently happen to live evergreens that are planted after they have been used as Christmas trees: 1. They are planted in the wrong place and have to be removed. 2. They die because of improper handling or planting.

It is important to remember that most live Christmas trees are young and will ultimately grow tall. One of the most popular, the balsam fir, attains a height of 70 feet, and another, the white spruce, 120 feet. It is evident that these trees should not be used with the idea that they will long remain small. To plant them too closely to the house, walk or driveway is only inviting future labor and expense for their removal. These evergreens should only be placed where they can grow naturally without interfering with other features of the property.

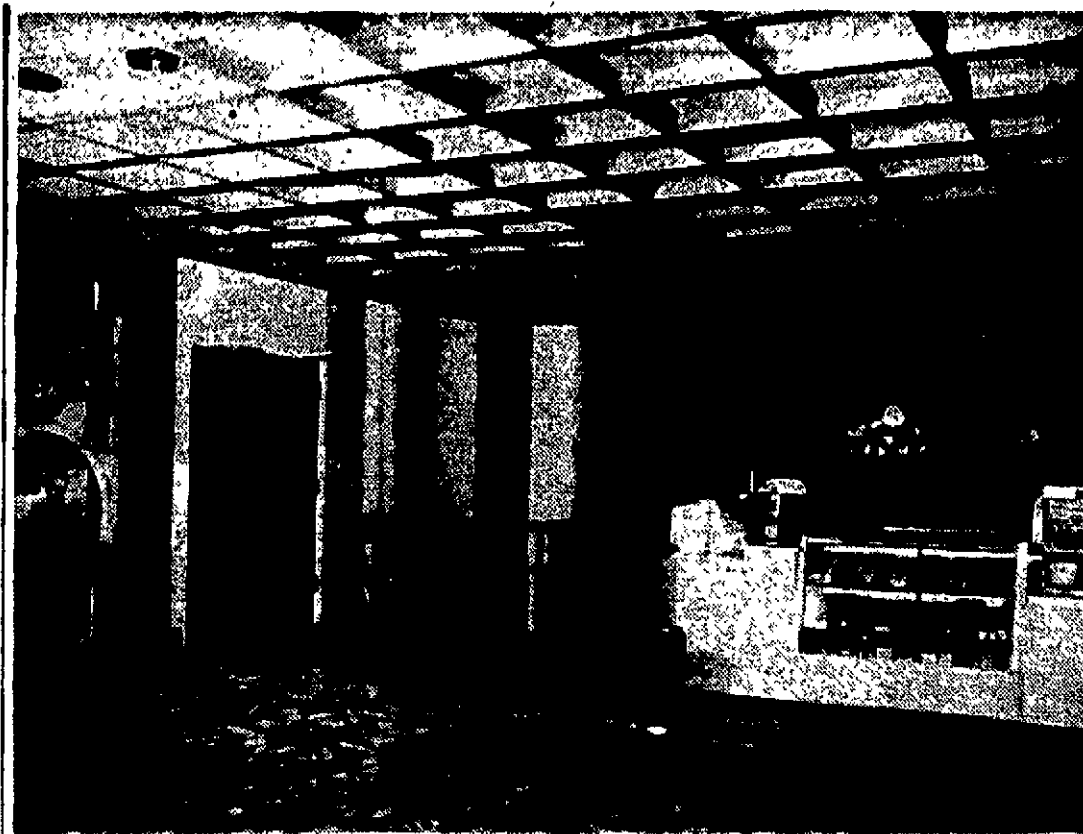

Find Out Kind

Before planting your Christmas tree find out what kind it is, and how fast and how high it will grow. Evergreens do not grow as spectacularly as such deciduous trees as green ash, Chinese elm, silver maple, sycamore, willows and poplars, but Scotch pine, white pine, Norway and white spruce can, under good conditions, grow twenty feet in 10 years.

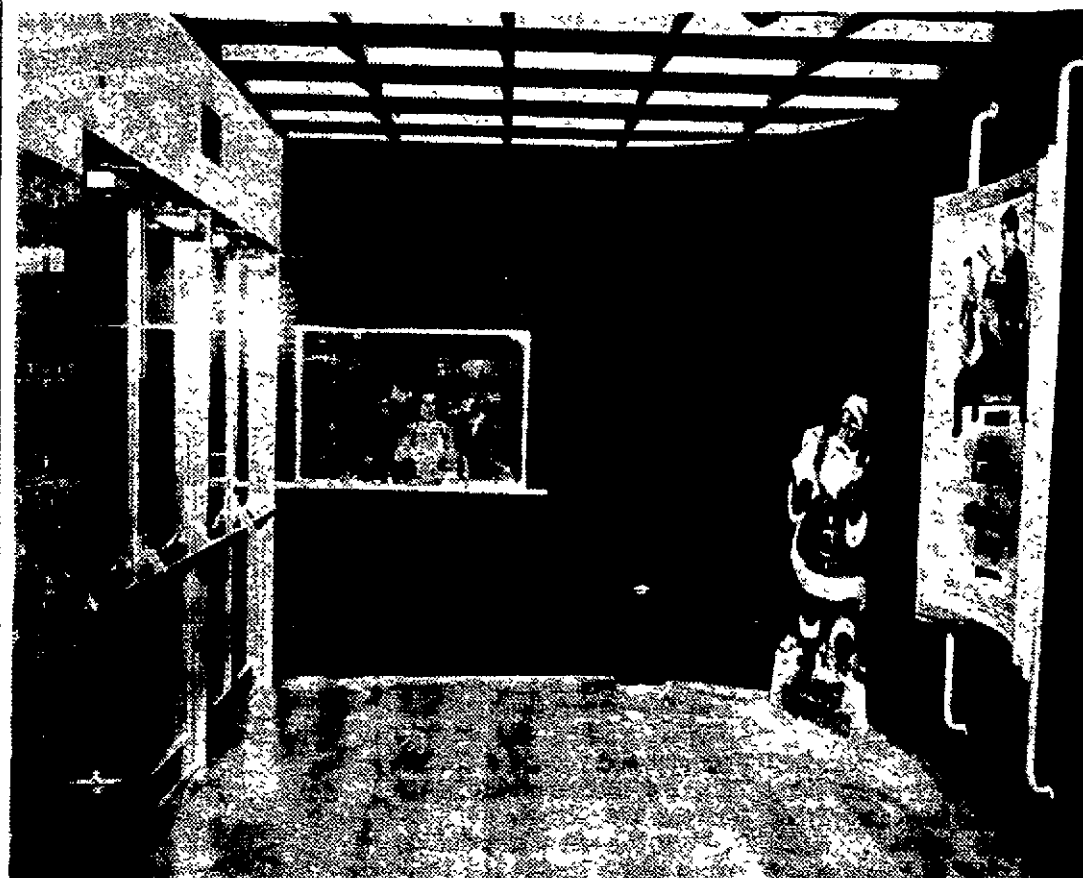

After learning about your tree, decide where to plant it. Your success in making it grow depends to a large extent on how you handle it. Never carry it by its stem; always move it by the ball of earth that encloses its roots.

When the tree is in the house keep it as cool as possible and never let its ball of earth dry out. Sprinkle the ball with water occasionally but not until it becomes mushy.

Before planting the tree outside keep it in an unheated garage or other cold but protected place for a week or so. After planting, stake it securely so that it will not be dislodged by the wind.

The Colorful Tones of Flame, turquoise and gray in the new carpeting in the lobby of the Viking theater highlight the modern decor of the remodeled area. A flame, pigskin-textured covering is on the wall at the right and across the back of the inner lobby. Wide stripes of turquoise and gray fabric cover the stairwell wall. A handsome black, 2-dimensional fabric is on the dividing wall and the doors into the theater proper. The dropped ceiling has a shadow box effect.

Here's the Answer

Question: Our house is over 50 years old. Lately I have been doing some remodeling, which has included replacing some of the old moldings. I have been able to get duplicates of the moldings at a lumber yard—with two exceptions. I was under the impression that moldings were standardized.

Answer: At the time your house was built, each manufacturer of moldings had his own patterns and turned out individual moldings. About 30 years ago, the manufacturers got together and decided to do something about standardizing the moldings so that replacements would be easier. Since then, moldings of set designs are turned out by all the manufacturers. A few still make their own individual line of moldings, but they also carry all the standardized types. Any place which does millwork can make special moldings to match the old ones you have been unable to duplicate.

Question: I have never been able to tell the difference between common nails and box nails. They look the same to me. How can I tell which is which and what to use?

Answer: Common nails and box nails are almost identical in appearance. The one difference is that common nails are heavier in weight and larger in diameter. Both are used for general construction work; the common nails for heavy-duty jobs, the box nails for light-duty.

Question: I have done a lot of work on my bandsaw and just recently began using it on metal. Every time I cut sheet metal, burrs are left on the underside of it. I have tried different kinds of blades, thinking that was the trouble,

Sink Requires Best Location

All Work in the Kitchen Revolves Around This Unit

Probably no room in the house has been subjected to more scientific scrutiny in recent years than the kitchen. The result is that there is available a vast fund of useful information on how to plan a kitchen to save time and steps.

One of the simple fundamentals of kitchen planning is to get a good location for the sink. Even if there is an automatic dishwasher in the kitchen, the sink is still a very important piece of equipment in the kitchen.

About half of the homemaker's time is spent at the sink in the preparation of food and in the clearing away process. The preferred spot for the sink is under a window. Also the sink should, if possible, be placed between the refrigerator and the range. It is used most often in connection with these in food preparation.

The trend in kitchen planning is toward the sink with two compartments. The number of drainboards is optional. A disappearing rinse hose for cleaning vegetables and fruits is a very useful adjunct to the sink. Virtually all sinks now come with a crumb strainer which converts the bowl to a water-tight compartment.

Possibly no other piece of equipment in the home is used as often as the faucet on the kitchen sink. For this reason a faucet of good quality is a sound investment.

1 Commitment Plan Outlined by FHA Chief

Builder Can Submit Design, Variations, Get Single Permit

Federal housing administration has announced a new plan whereby home builders can use a single FHA commitment for a variety of houses based on a basic design.

"This means," said Commissioner Norman P. Mason, "that a builder can submit to us his basic design, together with variations — such as the addition of a fireplace, garage, porch and the like — and we will give him one commitment that covers the design and the additions. This way he will not have to come back for approvals or reprocessing on changes buyers want in the basic house."

Master Program The commissioner said the new plan, which has been likened to a master commitment program, will save builders time and money and will cut down on overall processing time at FHA. Heretofore, builders have been required to get commitments for each variation.

"This new procedure, which will become effective when the necessary forms arrive at our field offices, will make it possible for a builder to tell prospective buyers exactly how much each addition to the basic house will cost," Mason said.

FHA will make the necessary determinations during processing with respect to the cost and value that would result if such changes as additions — or deletions — are made in the basic dwelling.

It is expected, the commissioner added, that this procedure will generally reduce the number of reconsideration actions that would arise from the builder's requests for such information. He added that the program should be mutually beneficial to FHA, the home building industry, and home buyers.

Swim Outfit More Revealing Than Appealing

Muskegon, Mich. — (U) — While still dry, the new swim suit purchased in 1957 by Donna Dibble was adequate for her trim figure.

But, the attractive blonde housewife charged in a $2,500 damage suit in circuit court, on its first dip in Lake Michigan the garment proved more revealing than appealing.

Her legal action against a Muskegon store charges she was "humiliated, embarrassed and publicly disgraced" on her first swim in the suit because it became transparent.

She said she noticed the condition only after discovering other bathers "calling, staring and pointing at you," plaintiff in a shocked manner" when she came out of the water.

Mrs. Dibble said she had to plunge back into the lake and wait for friends to bring her something else to wear.

Rose-Red Marker

Fire Victims Buried Beside Graves Of Brothers in Holy Cross Cemetery

BY JAY REED

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Kaukauna — In a corner of Holy Cross cemetery not far from a caretaker's shed is a small rose-red marker.

Weyenberg.

Joseph, Sept. 6-7, 1958.

James, Sept. 6-10, 1958.

Here, side by side, six brothers and sisters journeyed into eternity Christmas eve. They were all that remained of what once was the family of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Weyenberg, victims of a fire that destroyed their home Sunday.

100 Mourners
About 100 mourners, friends and spectators crowded close to the green and brown canvas canopy which sheltered the six white coffins.

Apart, near one end of the shelter, a small boy knelt quietly in the snow. His blue parka coat was stained and his tousled hair stirred in the chill breeze. His lips moved with the words of the "Hail Mary" and "Our Father."

And then the services were over. Sisters in their black habits filed first from inside the canopy. Each paused for a moment to sprinkle drops of holy water on the coffins. Then 24 pallbearers, eighth graders at Holy Cross elementary school, did the same.

The grieving parents and remaining mourners returned to waiting automobiles. The crowd around the canopy stood mutely for moments and then moved away.

The small boy, his blue overall knees damp, moved off from the graveside and disappeared.

Wind ruffled the canvas canopy and rocked a Christmas decoration on the house across the street.

Now the six white coffins were alone beside the rose-red marker.

It didn't seem like Christmas eve.

Texans Send Contributions

Weyenberg Fund Donations Pour Into Post Office

Kaukauna — Tokens of compassion for Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Weyenberg, who lost their six children in an early Sunday morning fire that destroyed their home, have been received here from as far as Texas.

Robert Grogan, postmaster, said today hundred of disaster fund donations are being received, chiefly from Fox valley residents, but some have come from as far as Texas, Pennsylvania and Chicago.

The letters have been coming to the mayor's fund, the police and fire funds, the Holy Cross Catholic church fund and directly to the Weyenberg family.

Passed $5,000 Mark

Mayor Joseph Bayorgeon announced the fund he initiated shortly after the fire and other agency funds have passed the $5,000 mark. The figure does not include all monies being donated.

Thilmany Pulp and Paper company and firm officials have turned over checks totaling $1,600, the mayor said. A canvass of all employees will be made Monday by Local 147 of the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers union. Weyenberg is a pipefitter at Thilmany.

The chamber of commerce drive is nearing the $600 mark in a canvass of the city's businessmen. The Holy Cross Altar society has reached its $1,000 goal in a pledge campaign.

Benefit Game
The Kaukauna Athletic club reports its benefit basketball game with Hewitt's Machine of Neenah scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday at the high school gym should be played to an overflow crowd, according to the number of tickets being sold.

It is expected that civic and service clubs will make donations as they meet in the coming days.

Grogan speculated that many of the Fox Valley contributions received were prompted by a pledge-gathering campaign conducted by WXAM, Neenah radio station.

A meeting of officials was called for 3:30 p.m. today by Coroner Kemps at the municipal building to coordinate findings in investigation of the cause of the fire.

Security, Commodity Markets Closed for Holiday Vacation

New York — U. S. security and commodity markets were closed today for an extended Christmas holiday. They reopen Monday on a normal schedule.

British and Canadian exchanges are also closed. The Winnipeg grain market and Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges are observing boxing day.

Remaining open are banks, the Chicago stockyards, and brokerage houses that specialize in government bonds.

Family Christmas Dinners were the Christmas day "Medicine" served at Theda Clark Memorial hospital in Neenah to its patients. Full 10-course dinners were served to the families of those patients unable to get home for the holiday and 82 persons were guests of the hospital for dinner served in the patient's room. Elmer Kirt, Oconto, here for special surgery, was reunited for Christmas dinner with his family, left to right, Cynthia, Richard, Judith and his wife, Evelyn.

Theda Clark Hospital Invites Families of Patients to Dinner

Neenah — It was a merry Christmas day at Theda Clark hospital Thursday.

Normally, Christmas day has the least number of patients for the entire year as many patients are sent home to be with their families if at all possible. This practice reduced the number of patients for Christmas day to 85 persons and 10 babies.

But for those unable to get home, Gerald L. Aldridge, new hospital administrator, inaugurated a new practice. The families of these patients were guests of the hospital for Christmas dinner.

And it was a dinner with all the trimmings, turkey, salads, relishes, dressing, dessert and all that goes with a family Christmas dinner.

Eighty-two guests ate in the room of their family member who is a patient so that the families could be reunited. On each tray was a favor, a menu printed on Christmas

Firemen Answer Call Christmas Day

Menasha — Firemen were called out at 1:18 p.m. Christmas day when clothes in the bathroom of a home owned by Arthur Ponto, 532 Sixth street, started burning. The fire was caused by a lighted cigaret, according to Fire Chief Edward Heim. Only the clothes were damaged.

A minor fire at the Strange Paper company, Washington street, brought firemen out at 3:20 this morning. Lint burning in a vent pipe under a paper machine was extinguished.

Canadians See Great Demand For Newsprint

Estimate '59 Total Will Show Increase From Last Top Year

Montreal — The Newsprint Association of Canada estimates world newsprint demand in 1959 will exceed 14,200,000 tons—the largest ever. The estimate, published in the association's annual report, is based on an expectation that North American demand will be at least 7,300,000 tons, equal to the figure in 1956, the largest year on record.

Last year newsprint demand on this continent was down by 6 per cent from 1957 and 9 per cent from 1956. As a result, the world consumption of newsprint decreased for the first time since the second world war.

Reserve Capacity
The publication says non-communist countries now have a reserve newsprint production capacity of 2,500,000 tons and for the first time in 10 years North American producers have sufficient capacity to meet projected increases in demand.

Canadian shipments in 1959, the publication estimates, will be 6,140,000 tons, compared with six million tons in 1958, when nearly five million tons went to the United States, 420,000 tons to Canada and 780,000 tons to overseas customers.

Good Manners Help Man Solve Credit Problem

Atlanta — A middle-aged man used polite manners to make up for a bad credit rating and get a Christmas bicycle.

Police said two women were trying to load a bike into the back of a car yesterday when the man walked up, exchanged Christmas greetings, and offered to help.

The bicycle loaded, the women walked back into the house. When they returned a moment later the bike was gone, and so was the volunteer helper.

Officers said they had been told a man answering the same description had tried to buy a bicycle in several shops, but was turned down because of a bad credit rating.

Suffers Rupture of Lung in Coughing Spell

Copenhagen — King Frederik of Denmark suffered a rupture of a lung in a violent coughing spell during his Christmas vacation and was returned here in an ambulance today from his hunting lodge. He was put to bed.

The 59-year-old king suffered the injury while at his lodge at Trend in northern Jutland. Court announcement said the king would have to stay in bed for some time but that there was no indication of a serious illness. Queen Ingrid and the royal couple's three daughters are returning from Trend tomorrow.

The announcement said King Frederik suffered the coughing fit during breakfast at the lodge Wednesday morning.

4,609 Notices Distributed In Menasha

Menasha — City Treasurer Frank Beck this morning sent out 4,609 tax bills amounting to $1,302,056 in real estate, personal property and special assessments.

Of the total to be collected $21,233 will come from special assessments compared to $14,505 this year; $169,776 in 1958; and $1,112,959 from real estate or home owners compared to $1,012,511 this year.

Residents in the Second ward were billed for $348,054 for real estate and special assessments. Third ward residents will have to pay $321,462; Fourth ward, $280,620; First ward, $106,123; and Fifth ward, $77,930.

Personal property taxes to be collected include $76,718 from the second ward; $46,134, Third ward; $21,480, First ward; $20,073, Fourth ward; and $3,457, Fifth ward.

Special Assessments
Special assessment tax bills for 1959 include $9,308, curb and gutter; $6,295, sidewalk; $40, snow removal; $306, weed cutting; $218, unpaid water accounts; $1,410, sewer bonds; $2,789, street improvements; and $863, water mains.

Tax bills were sent to 445 people in the First ward, 877, Second ward; 800, Third ward; 1,645, Fourth ward; and 472, Fifth ward.

The council approved a $32 tax rate for 1959 which dictates the tax total in 1959, $98,500 more in taxes will be collected than was collected this year.

Beck stated any citizens owing less than $20 in taxes must pay the amount in full. For greater amounts, one-fourth the general tax plus total special assessments must be paid in January, the second payment no later than March 31, third payment no later than May 31; and final payment no later than July 31 if the payer uses the installment plan.

If payments are not made within a specified time they become delinquent and interest of eight-tenths of 1 per cent per month or fraction from Jan. 1 will be charged. Feb. 28 is the last day taxes can be paid in full to the city treasurer.

Annual Home Talent Cage Tournament Set At St. John Gymnasium

Plan Two Divisions of Competition; Meet Gets Underway Jan. 30, Ends Feb. 8

Menasha — Dates and details for the third annual St. John Athletic association Home Talent basketball tournament were worked out at a recent meeting of the athletic association. Plans were announced by the Rev. John Mirek.

The tournament will be held Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1-8 at the St. John gym. Proceeds will go toward the St. John building fund, the big project of which is the construction of the addition to the school.

The tournament will be different than in its first two years in that it will have "A" and "B" divisions. Each separate tournament will have at least eight entries.

Team Trophies

The "A" tournament will be for the stronger squads such as BABA entries, while the "B" section is for Industrial, Church and other squads which cannot compete on the same level with the "A" division quintets.

A team trophy and 10 individual awards will be presented to the winner in each division and second and third place trophies will be awarded in each class.

The outstanding player in each class will receive a trophy and two all-tournament teams of five players each will be announced.

No Additions

Rosters must include players who have been competing with the squads this season and no cagers may be added specifically for the tournament.

If a cager is playing with a team which is entered in both "A" and "B" divisions, he may compete for both clubs but he cannot play with two teams in one division.

Last year's meet drew a record entry of 20 teams. Reliance Printers of Green Bay defeated St. John Holy Name for the championship. North Fond du Lac was the titlist in the first annual meet.

Entries in both divisions close Jan. 10, according to Father Mirek.

Mid-Eastern Cagers Split With Fox Foes

Two Leagues Have Broken Even in 10 Games to Date

Neenah — Mid-Eastern conference basketball teams have split even in 10 games to date with the larger Fox Valley conference with another test of strength coming up Saturday night when Appleton High invades Neenah.

There's another test next Tuesday when Oshkosh invades Kimberly and the two leagues will be mixed freely when tournament time comes.

Two Rivers has beaten Manitowoc and Sheboygan North. Both are Fox Valley conference first division teams — in fact, North is unbeaten in its circuit.

Menasha, in the second division of its league, divided a pair of games. It lost narrowly to Manitowoc, but edged a decision over Appleton. Neenah lost to Fond du Lac. Both are first division teams in their respective circuits.

Clintonville lost to Green Bay East. Both are second division clubs in their own leagues. Kaukauna, a second division Mid-Eastern conference team, has lost to Sheboygan North and Fond du Lac, both first division clubs.

Shawano, the other Mid-Eastern unbeaten club, and New London, winless in its league, haven't met any Fox Valley league teams.

Preparing His Ice Yacht for a run on Lake Winnebago is John Krueger, 418 Park drive, Neenah, in the upper photo. The lower photo shows the tiny "Skeeter" class craft in silhouette. Krueger built the craft with the aid of his father, Gilbert H. Krueger. Although once a very popular sport on the north end of Lake Winnebago, interest has fallen off and now there are only about a dozen yachts left. Krueger was one of the first to put his on the ice this year.

Ice Boating Interest Centers at Oshkosh for Approaching Regatta

Neenah — Ice boating, once a popular sport on Lake Winnebago, apparently has dropped off, particularly on the north end of the lake. However, Oshkosh has two organized clubs, the Oshkosh Ice Yacht club and the South Side Ice Yacht club.

Both hold competitive events, individually and jointly, and also compete in a Midwest organization which includes Lake Geneva and Madison. In the Neenah-Menasha area there are perhaps a dozen ice yachts but so far this year very few have been put out on the ice. There are no competitive events, although some of the yachtsmen have sailed with the Oshkosh groups.

Oshkosh is scheduled to be host to a Midwest regatta early in January but ice and snow conditions make the Yachters even more dependent on the weather than the ILYA crews.

have two sails including a jib up front and a larger mainsail. Mostly ice boating is an individual sport although even the smaller ones may have a tandem seat. The larger ones take a crew of two.

High Speeds

Speeds, given the right wind and ice conditions, can be quite terrific. When traveling broadside and downwind, the ice yachts can move along at speeds of three and four times the speed of the wind. That makes speeds of 60, 70 and even 90 miles an hour possible.

Under some conditions the skeeters can beat the big yachts with three times the sail area but when there is snow on the ice the larger, heavier ones have an advantage.

Mediator Hopes To End Walkout

New York — The chief of the nation's mediation service came here from Washington today to take a hand in efforts to settle the delivery strike which halted major newspaper publication 17 days ago.

The top mediator, Joseph F. Finnegan, said the only significance to his trip was that he was "anxious to see the strike settled."

He previously had taken part in the contract negotiations, but had been absent for a week.

Nine papers are affected by the walkout of union deliverymen.

The Menasha center team is in seventh place, one notch out of the cellar with its 1-5 record. Only Manitowoc is winless, occupying the cellar with six straight losses.

Costume judging will be under the direction of Fred Heinemann, Miss Jan Rowan and Leonard Keis, Appleton. Miss Cindy Thomson, Oshkosh, and Miss Rowan and Miss Joyce Boenock, Appleton, are in charge of publicity.

The food committee, consisting of Kubisiak, Edwin Knapstein, Jr., and Marlin Fuerst, will have two lunch stands on the hill.

Charles Dorsey will have charge of parking and Gerald Dorschner will have charge of plowing snow for the parking area.

A fashion show will be under the direction of Miss Carol Richardson, Menasha, assisted by Miss Phyllis Jonan and Miss JoAnne DuFrane, Appleton.

The club now has three tows operating to bring the skiers to the top of the three levels of the hill. The slopes are designed for beginners, intermediate skiers and experts.

Kubisiak said the club is offering free ski lessons to beginners. It also has 52 members active in the ski patrol.

Soviets Pass Law to Jail U. S. Fliers

Moscow — The Soviet Union has legalized imprisonment of up to 10 years for U. S. or other foreign fliers who violate Soviet air space.

The provision is included in a new criminal code approved by the Supreme Soviet yesterday. Sentences would range from one to 10 years plus fines up to 10,000 rubles ($2,500 at the official exchange rate.)

The United States believes the Soviet Union still holds 11 crewmen of an air force transport plane that crashed in Soviet territory Sept. 2.

The Soviet Union turned over the bodies of six crewmen recovered from the wreckage but repeatedly has denied any knowledge of the others. The plane became lost in bad weather and flew over Soviet soil.

Zephyr Cagers to Meet St. Benedict the Moor '5' at Appleton Court

End '58 Part of Schedule With Tilt At St. Joseph Gym

Menasha — St. Mary's High school cagers will close the 1958 part of their basketball schedule with an exhibition game against St. Benedict the Moor High school of Milwaukee at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Appleton St. Joseph gymnasium.

The Zephyrs will open the 1959 part of their schedule with another exhibition, this one against Wisconsin Rapids Assumption High school in a game scheduled at Stevens Point as a preliminary to a college game.

With those games on the schedule, Coach Ralph Mc-

Clone has scheduled holiday drills. The Zephyrs worked out Monday and Tuesday of this week, had Wednesday and Thursday off and were back again for a practice this morning. They'll have a similar schedule next week.

Near Top Strength

McClone is hoping to have his squad at near full strength for the first time this season. Ed Lotzer still is out of action but is off of crutches now. Norm Brown still is hampered by a football shoulder injury and Mike DuFrane has been slowed by an ankle injury but both have played in the last several games and are rounding into shape. Gus Laermrich missed the Marinette game because of an infection and Jim Rueckl was out with the flu.

The St. Benedict team, one of the smaller Milwaukee parochial schools, has an all-Negro enrollment. The team has been playing all of the Milwaukee Catholic conference schools this season and next year will enter official league competition.

Crowd Pleaser

The team has been meeting the Zephyrs regularly over the years and, while it hasn't been very successful in the matter of victories, has been a crowd-pleaser with tricky maneuvers and adept ball handling ala the Globe Trotters. Lack of height has hampered the team.

Reserve teams of the two schools will meet in the preliminary game at 1:30 p.m.

Man Builds Blaze in Ornamental Fireplace

Cliffside Park, N.J. — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Perry thought it would be nice to spend Christmas around a roaring fireplace in the living room of their new home.

Perry lit the wood, smoke filled the room, the Christmas tree wilted and the flames burned a big hole in the wall.

Perry told firemen later that he hadn't been informed the fireplace was only an ornament.

Boys Need Dress Up Play Roles

By the time children are about three years old it's possible to observe a difference in the play of boys and girls. Especially is this true in dramatic and imaginative play. Recently I watched a group of three-year-olds in a nursery school.

The girls played at being mothers, nurses, teachers, neighbors. They carried out a multitude of domestic jobs. They cooked food, served meals, cleaned house, cared for children, washed, ironed, dressed up to go out.

The boys, too liked to pretend to be grown up. But the little boys' notion of a grown up man seemed to be the driver of a car, a policeman, a milkman, maybe a mechanic. The children didn't have as much experience with these jobs as did the little girls with household tasks. The boys knew them only as spectators, while the girls knew the feminine jobs intimately and had often been urged to take part in them at home.

Father Roles

An interesting discussion was raised in this nursery school. If at this tender age children are already identifying themselves with adults of the same sex why was it that so few boys ever played father roles? The boys apparently thought of grown men as workers, as drivers of machinery, but seldom as fathers.

Was it because the children saw so little of their fathers that they seldom thought of them as men? True, in this hectic world of ours many fathers come home after the children are in bed and leave before much has happened in the morning, and some of these men spend mighty little time with the children over the weekends. But on taking a closer look at the children in the group the teacher knew this wasn't true of all the fathers of these children. There was Lester over there playing at being a policeman. The teacher knew Lester's father to be a warm, devoted parent who did many things with his child and yet Lester never identified with him in his play.

Equipment

An imaginative young teacher had a bright idea. She looked over the play equipment in the house keeping part of the playroom.

"How," she said, "Can a child dramatize a father here? There is nothing but scarfs, jewelry, hats to dress up in."

Next day she added some new play material. She brought in a razor (without a blade), a pipe, some neckties, a tool box and an old pair of pants and a man's hat.

The results were very interesting. In a few days boys were playing at father and Tourtellotte explained, "That the girls accepted them as such."

Said Sally, "This old iron won't work—you're the Daddy, Steve."

Artist Relaxes by Painting for Hobby

Neenah — "Commercial art is a job — you do what you have to do, but painting as a hobby is doing whatever you like," explained Edward A. Tourtellotte, art director of the Oshkosh Engraving company and a leisure-time artist.

The artist works in pastels, oil and watercolor, all in the basement of his home at 629 Hansen street while a studio on the first floor has facilities for his commercial work which he often completes at home.

"Oil is the easiest medium because an artist can cover his mistakes," Tourtellotte added "and watercolors are the hardest." In April of 1957 he completed an 8 x 4 foot Indian mural in oils for the Berlin Glove company which recently burned. "Now there is nothing left of the painting," he said sadly.

The Neenah artist is a realistic painter whose idol is Norman Rockwell. He often paints from Kodachromes as he doesn't have the time to spend painting and sketching at the scene. Mexican and western scenes are among his favorites and he paints them in pastels with artistic sensitivity.

Awards

He was awarded second place in a recent open-air exhibit in Neenah with a watercolor of an indian mounted on a horse and has sold 22 of his paintings during the past year. Tourtellotte originated the exhibits at the Athearn hotel which are on view in the English room. Many state artists have shown their works there and most of the paintings are available for sale. Other area artists whose paintings have hung in the exhibits are Henry Young and the late Nile Behncke.

"I like to have my wife watch me work and to see how my paintings are progressing," he commented when asked about interruptions to his hobby.

His favorite work is a large watercolor of a Navajo Indian and he also treasures an original Indian painting which Norman Rockwell sent Tourtellotte.

Commercial Artist

The artist, who has been with the Oshkosh firm for 18 years, previously worked for the Northwestern Engraving company and the National Engraving company in Milwaukee. He completed a commercial art course by correspondence and spent four years at the St. Paul Art institute. He also studied for a year with the New York Art Students' league under John Sloan, Stirling Calder, George Luka and other renowned artists.

Advising would-be commercial artists Tourtellotte urged studying in accredited courses and learning printing processes. For the recreational artist, classes are held at the Paint Art center in Oshkosh and at Lawrence college.

"Artists become all wrapped up in what they're doing," Tourtellotte explained. "That is why it is one of the best hobbies for relaxing and if I didn't have so much other work, I'd paint all the time!"

Churches Plan Entertainment For Students

The Methodist college students, young adults and servicemen's Christmas party is scheduled for 6 p.m. Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Peterson, 151 Law street. A buffet supper will be served by the Women's Society of Christian Service and entertainment is being planned by the Young Adult fellowship.

The Pilgrim fellowship of the First Congregational church will entertain college students and servicemen at a jobagging party at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. A party will be held for the group after the outdoor activities at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ebbe Berg, Pages Point, Menasha.

Bess Myerson Once Piano Soloist With Symphony; Jack Mahoney Was Swimmer

BY JINGO
Did you know that . . . Bess Myerson, hostess of "The Big Payoff," was a guest piano soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra at Carnegie Hall in May, 1946 . . . Jack Mahoney, TV's "Yancy Derringer," established a national swimming record for the 40-yard free style while attending the University of Iowa . . . Verna Felton, veteran character actress of "December Bride," made her stage debut when eight years old—as Little Lord Fauntleroy. That Ed Sullivan learned to play golf while caddyding for Gene Sarazen long ago in Sullivan's youth . . . Rocky Cole, accompanist for Patti Page, wrote the hit tune of several years ago, "Cement Mixer" . . . Roland Winters, announcer for Peter Lind Hayes, appeared as Charlie Chan in over 50 movies . . . Larry Ellis, the Sammy Kaye vocalist, once taught Liberace to ice skate for the finale of a nightclub show.

Mike Connolly, a Hollywood columnist, gives this reason why color motion pictures aren't transmitted in color when they are shown on television: "It costs a TV station about $500 extra to beam a color movie . . . for the added personnel required for color projection and the higher charges for color prints than for black and whites. Besides, local sponsors won't pay the stations a nickel more . . . for the color bonus because they figure there aren't that many color sets around."

Betty Kean and Lew Parker are readying a TV series starring themselves, "The Bickersons." Bob Cummings starts his fifth year on TV Jan. 13 . . . Richard Denning and Evelyn Ankers are in England and where they are filming a TV Cummings series entitled "The Flying Doctor" . . . Remember the old stage and movie play, "Arsenic and Old Lace"? It's coming to TV in the form of a series called "Larceny and Old Lace." Murder is too tough for family audience, but "Larceny's" okay?

Schultz has pulled out of its Friday night dramatic series to back Ray Milland's "Crises" series. No date announced for the switch.

Nancy Walker, long a Broadway star, has a new situation series in the TV hopper. Two youngsters just signed for the Linda Darnell TV series, "The 'Boroughbreds," will be paid $350 a week. Talk about unsettled: Here's a release on ABC-TV's "Don Quixote" 90-minute spectacular now scheduled somewhere between Feb. 15 and March 1. Jose Ferrer will star and direct. Bert Lahr or Mickey Rooney may play Sancho Panza, Patrice Munsel or Polly Bergen may appear as Lady Dulcinea. Jose Greco and his flamenco dancers and guitarist Carlos Montoya definitely are signed.

Gene Nelson has signed to stage the choreography for Eddie Fisher's show . . . Don DeFore's new family-situation series, "For the Love of Mike," will feature Darlene Gillespie, former mouseketeer, as Mike . . . Judy Garland tours the New York Metropolitan Opera house, the Chicago Civic Opera house and the San Francisco Opera house early next year . . . CBS-TV lost $1 million with "Rawhide." Ten segments were filmed, but no sponsor appeared.

Speaking of coin: Twentieth Century-Fox will spend $15 million on 16 new television series, nine of which are set for a September start. The nine include "Festival," a 90-minute, once-a-month show of dramas and musicals; "Profile," hour-long biographies; "The Esther Williams Show,"

Our annual assessment of the year's product uncovers no standout film, as in the last two years with "Around the World in 80 Days" and "The Bridge on the River Kwai." Several films won hearty approval from critics and audiences, but few had that magic hats-in-the-air quality.

Firemen Suggest Rules For Sitters in Holidays

Neenah—Because the Christmas holiday season is a time of much entertaining and visiting, the Neenah fire department today offered suggestions for parents who employ baby sitters.

These suggestions, designed for the safety of the children while the parents are away, are:

1. Know the sitter; make inquiries about her training and background.
2. Employ only sitters who have a sense of responsibility and who like children.
3. Try to have the same sit-

270,000 Tune to TV's Physics Class

BY CHARLES MERCER
New York—As best everyone can figure out there are now about 270,000 persons throughout the country tuning their TV sets at 6:30 a.m. five mornings a week to NBC-TV stations for a course in physics.

"Continental Classroom" is the name of the series whose co-partners are NBC, the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Dr. Harvey E. White, who is conducting the course, said the other day that besides about 5,000 students enrolled in the TV course for regular credits from 250 colleges and universities, mail about the series is pouring in from viewers, technicians, advanced students, housewives "and just about everybody."

Interest the Young
Dr. White, professor of physics at the University of California at Berkeley and consultant to the atomic energy commission, said that "one of the most significant things to me is the large numbers of youngsters between the ages of 6 and 14 who regularly watch the program."

"Probably most of them can't work the problems which we pose. But in the long run this group of young viewers may be the most important contribution of 'Continental Classroom,' since it is influencing them to take an interest in scientific careers at an early age."

The variety of viewers is surprising. In Montclair, N.J., a high school class gathers each morning to take the course. Not long ago, when the lights were turned on after the program was over, teacher and students found an elderly couple sitting in the back of the room.

The man explained they watched the program every morning and their set had gone on the blink the night before. So

In Dr. White's words, "This program shows that there's an appreciative audience for education on television."

900 Member Goal Set for County 4-H

Enrollment This Year Was 825; New Work Projects Added
Oshkosh—A membership goal of 900 has been set for the Winnebago county 4-H clubs for 1959, according to Clarence Westfahl, county 4-H director.

The county's 4-H enrollment has been climbing steadily during the last several years, reaching a high of 825 this year.

The second year of the photography project is being added to the list of projects available next year. This was the first year of the project and those enrolled can continue for a second year.

In the nature and conservation field, projects next year will include resource mapping, water studies, flowers and birds. It is suggested conservation project members spend two years in the general project and then specialize in forestry or any other area in which they might be interested.

Leaders Meetings
The first county-wide leaders meeting has been set for Jan. 19 at the courthouse to discuss local club planning and for a sharing of ideas on club activities. Other county-wide leaders meetings will be March 16, May 18 and July 20.

The leaders association directors at a recent meeting, expressed a desire for county-wide activity emphasis to be continued in civil defense in addition to community service. They are proposing several recommendations at the January meeting regarding the awards program in club work.

The firm will have 1,250 shares of common stock without par value.

Midwest Bulk Transport, Inc., has changed its name to Midwest Bulk, Inc., according to an amendment to its articles of incorporation also filed with the register of deeds. A. E. Schultz, Neenah, is president of the company.

Yule Repays Dinner With Theft
Nashville, Tenn.—A juvenile detention home inmate stole a pistol and ammunition and fled from a private home where he had been invited for Christmas dinner, police reported.

Lewis Waldman, 13, was arrested two hours later by Patrolman H. E. Lay. Lay said the boy still had the .38 caliber pistol and 75 rounds of ammunition in his pocket, but did not resist arrest.

Waldman was the special Christmas guest of S. T. Marsh. Marsh told officers the boy had been given toys and the family was just sitting down to the table when the youngster went back to the living room to take another look at the Christmas tree.

When he failed to come back Marsh called police.

Oshkosh Firm Low Bidder on Road Job
Rasmussen Construction company, Oshkosh, has submitted the low bid of $211,993 for blacktopping 15 miles of Highway 45 near Eden in Washington and Fond du Lac counties.

The offer was one of 11 low bids submitted to the state highway commission for 11 Wisconsin road jobs. Low bids totaled $3,307,000. Four of the projects are on the interstate system.

Bids are subject to review by the commission and approval of the governor before contracts are let.

Terror Quint Visits Neenah Saturday

Appleton Holds Edge In Series

BY MIKE DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

What a difference a year can make.

The two meetings between the Appleton and Neenah High school basketball teams last season were among the state's premier attractions. They matched clubs which wound up the campaign with respective 18-5 and 18-4 win-loss records.

When the Terrors and Rockets renew acquaintances Saturday night in the Neenah gym things will be different.

Both clubs have lost almost all of their 1957-8 performers. The Terrors are currently stumbling along with a 1-4 record while the Rockets are 4-3.

Overall Edge
Nevertheless, friends of both institutions are sure to get a bit worked up before Saturday's events have run their course. The Neenah-Appleton rivalry, over the years, has never failed to generate some heat.

The larger-school Fox River Valley conference member has a 29-16 overall edge in its games with the Mid-Eastern conference Rockets. In their personal duel over the last five years, AHS' Dick Emanuel has a 4-3 pull over veteran Neenah skipper Ole Jorgensen.

The clubs split their games last season. Neenah won the regular season game, 55-49, but Appleton stung the Rockets, 56-44 for the Regional tournament title. Both games were played before big crowds in the Terror gym.

Home Floor Edge
The Rockets will be favored Saturday night. They have the better record and the home court advantage. Also, Appleton's two top scorers — John Nussbaum and Harold Lodholz — have just two good ankles between them.

Nussbaum, who plays guard, forward and center as the need arises, still hasn't recovered from a football injury. His ankle has been taped so much that the 5-11 junior is developing a bit of skin trouble. Emanuel has had John lay off the taping, skip all drills this week until today and, generally, "forget basketball" for a while.

Lodholz sprained his ankle in the fourth quarter of last Friday's 65-47 loss to Manitowish and was on crutches over the weekend. The 6-4 junior forwarder was able to return to practice Tuesday, but he confined his activity to shooting free throws.

Lodholz is Appleton's top scorer with 76 points in five games. Nussbaum has 70 and senior guard Bob Roemer 55 — but only 13 in the last two contests.

Kuehl Scores 98
Neenah has better height than Appleton with its five top scorers all in the 6-0 vicinity or over. Senior Bill Kuehl, who has been shifted to guard this year after scoring 145 points at a forward last season, has already poured in 98 markers.

The Rockets' second high man is senior Jon Halverson, with 82 markers. Other lead-

UW-M Seeks Upset Of Warriors Saturday

Milwaukee — Anticipation is building for Saturday's meeting with Marquette, the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee basketball team has been practicing its giant killing.

UW-M Coach Russ Rebholz refuses to count his Cardinals out, saying, "Mike Moran's the key man. If we can slow him down, we've got a chance to give them a ball game."

The Warriors are 8-1 and on the backboard," apparently hit their peak last Monday night when they knocked off tenth-ranked Xavier for their sixth victory in a row. The Cardinals are 4-2.

Moran Was Great
In order to get his squad into peak condition, Rebholz sent the Cardinals through a Jim McCoy drill Christmas day at "but it's Moran we're most worried about. He looked great in the game. Marquette has against Xavier and made the win all 15 meetings with rest of the team look great." UW-M. The schools have not Assigned to stop the 6-foot-8, met since 1945.

Althea Again Top Feminine Athlete of Year

Carol Heiss Is Distant Second In AP Poll

BY MURRAY ROSE
Of the Associated Press

Althea Gibson, the temporarily retired queen of tennis, today had another glorious chapter added to her Cinderella story. The one-time tomboy of Harlem was chosen the outstanding female athlete of 1958 in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

This is the second straight year the tall, tenacious New Yorker has been awarded the honor by a nationwide panel of sportswriters and sportscasters. She won it again by a whopping margin in recognition of her second successive sweep of the U.S. and Wimbledon championships.

It elevated the 31-year-old star among the all-time greats of sport — a position she had been aiming for ever since she broke into the major tournament set.

133 Votes
Althea received 133 first place votes out of a possible 202 and 456 points. Points were counted on a basis of three for first place, two for second, one for third.

Carol Heiss, the blonde, pretty, 18-year-old world figure skating champion from New York, was a distant second with 21 first placers and 189 points.

Beverly Hanson, leading money-winning golf pro from Indio, Calif., was third with 10 first placers and 126 points. Ilse Konrads, 14-year-old Australian swim phenom, was fourth with 82 points (10 firsts) and Dawn Fraser, another Australian swimming record-holder, was fifth with 42 points (one first).

1st Since 'Little Mo'
Miss Gibson became the first consecutive double winner in the AP poll since Maureen "Little Mo" Connolly, the former tennis champion, won it in 1951, 1952 and 1953. The other only consecutive repeaters were Alice Marble, another court queen, in 1939 and 1940, and the fabulous Babe Didrikson Zaharias in 1945, 1946 and 1947 for golf.

One of the two prized trophies Miss Gibson will receive is named in memory of the Babe. The other is the Fraternal Order of the Eagles' dinner in Milwaukee, Feb. 9, when Australia's Herb Elliott, the marvel miler, will be given the male athlete of the year trophy.

Joss Paces League-Leaders

Bobcats Must Face Loop's Top Scorer Saturday Night

Green Bay — The Green Bay Bobcats will be confronted by the Mid-America Hockey league's leading scorer when the powerful Sault Ste. Marie Indians invade the Brown County Veterans Memorial arena Saturday night.

He is Eddie Joss, 27-year-old Canadian-born center, who has rammed home 17 points in helping the unbeaten, pace-setting Indians post five victories and a tie in their six starts.

The talented Joss, who has been an American citizen for five years, has averaged almost two goals a game during that span, has total production including 11 goals and six assists.

The Bobcats, who also battle the Indians at the Soo Friday night, have no one to match this output but Coach Tony Bukovich is not without a few accomplished goal-getters of his own. Chief among them are former Olympian Dick Dougherty, Jackie Poole, former All American Andy Cicoria and little Joe Bocchini.

The Bobcats' first "Ladies Night" of the season will be held in connection with Saturday night's game at the Arena. Any escorted woman will be admitted for 50 cents.

"Bud" Wilkinson University of Oklahoma football coach (at the right, and co-captain Joe Rector, are greeted by Orange bowl princesses in Miami Thursday night. The princesses are Rosemarie Meeks, left, and Judy Ann Harwood. Oklahoma plays Syracuse in the New Year's day Orange bowl game.

Actors John Wayne, Left, and William Holden congratulate tennis star Althea Gibson upon her selection for the second straight time as female athlete of the year in the annual Associated Press poll. Miss Gibson is making her movie debut with Wayne and Holden in "Horse Soldiers" now under production in Hollywood.

Three Badgers Will Play on Defense for East Saturday

Giants' Watchword Is 'Stop Unitas'

Secondary Works Overtime on Ways To Bottle Up Colt Passing Ace

BY JOE REICHLER

New York — "Stop Unitas" was the New York Giants' watchword today as they prepared for their final long workout for the National Football league championship game against the Baltimore Colts Sunday.

The scrimmage was designed to set up what Coach Jim Lee Howell hopes will be an impregnable defense against the passing of the Colts' star quarterback, Johnny Unitas.

Extra Heavy Work

That meant defensive coach Tom Landry's famous four-some — pass defenders Jim Patton, Cliff Livingston, Lindon Crow and Emlen Tunnell — were in for some extra heavy work trying to knock down the heavens of "Chuck" Conerly, Don Heinrich and Joe Kemp.

It is no secret that along with the Colts' massive forward wall, the Giants fear Unitas the most. They have not forgotten their 24-21 victory over Baltimore was achieved with Unitas on the sidelines, nursing a couple of cracked ribs. They are fully aware that Unitas has thrown at least one touchdown pass in each of his last 25 games, a league record.

The Giants are rightfully proud of the fact they did not permit the Cleveland Browns to throw a single touchdown pass, in the final game of the regular season or in the playoff. The Giants won both by scores of 13-10 and 10-0. In the first game Jimmy Brown scored on a 65-yard run.

Despite the heavy concentration on Unitas, Howell isn't underestimating Alan Ameche and Lenny Moore, whom he regards as two of the best running backs in the league.

In the main, though, it is the Colts' "whaling wall" spearheaded by such behemoths as 288-pound Gene "Big Daddy" Lipscomb, Art Donovan (270), Jim Parker (260), Don Joyce (258) and Gino Marchetti (245), that gives Howell his greatest concern.

Celtics Roll To 8th Win In Succession

By The Associated Press
Christmas night brought nothing but woe to the opponents of the Boston Celtics and St. Louis Hawks, National Basketball association divisional leaders.

The Celts, leading the Eastern Division by three games over the New York Knicks, rolled to their eighth straight victory in the nightcap of a Christmas night doubleheader at New York, defeating the second place Knicks, 129-120. St. Louis, six games up on second place Detroit, got help from Cincinnati Royal castoff Clyde Lovellette to beat the Royals, 100-92.

Detroit edged the Minneapolis Lakers, 98-97, in overtime in the first game of the New York twin bill to round out Thursday night's activity.

Boston came from a 6-point halftime deficit to win. Frank Ramsey, Bill Russell, Sam Jones and Bob Cousy put together nine straight points to bring the Celtics from a 93-99 score to take an advantage they never relinquished.

Lovellette scored 21 points in 29 playing minutes to give St. Louis the impetus to stay ahead of the Royals. He teamed with "Hub" Reed and Cliff Hagan to gain a 52-45 halftime margin and put the game out of reach in the fourth period. De- after Wayne Embry scored 29, nine straight points while Bob Pettit and Hagan each got 27 for the winners.

Underdog West Expected to Stress Passing

San Francisco — Despite prospects of a wet field, look for a passing vs. running battle when East meets West in the Shrine's thirty-fourth annual charity classic Saturday.

East Coach "Duffy" Daugherty announced his lineups today, and clearly the emphasis is on an East running game.

The offensive backfield consists of Bob Placock of Michigan at quarterback, Ohio State's Don Clark at the running halfback spot, Dick Huley of Pittsburgh or Tom Lorrino of Auburn, at right half, and Nick Pietrosante of Notre Dame at fullback.

Offensive Line

Up front offensively, the Easterners, 61-point favorites, will have Jerry Wilson, Auburn, and Tom Frankhauser, Purdue, ends; Fran O'Brien, Michigan State, and Bog Novogratz, Army tackles, Dan Frank, Ohio State, and Al Ecuver, Notre Dame, guards, and Bernie Svendsen, Minnesota, center.

The defensive backfield lists Frank Kremles, Ohio State; Sid Williams, Wisconsin; Wray Carlton, Duke, and Jon Hobbs, Wisconsin.

Defensive Line

Viewers watching the contest at 4 p.m., CST, over nationwide television (NBC) will see this starting East defensive line:

Sammy Williams, Michigan State, and Bob Pepe, No. Carolina State, ends; "Bronko" Nagurski, Notre Dame, and Emil Karas, Dayton, tackles. John Guzik, Pittsburgh, and Ellison Kelly, Michigan State, guards, and Dick Leteak, Wisconsin, center. Art Gob, Pittsburgh end, will play both offense and defense, Daugherty said.

West Coach Jack Curtee was still mulling over his starting lineup, but it's a cinch Lee Grosscup of Utah, a co-captain with guard Charles Horton of Baylor, and Bob by Newman of Washington State will do plenty of passing.

Montreal '6' Boosts Lead To 12 Points

A few members of the New York Rangers today may be casting anxious eyes toward the Providence Reds, their American Hockey league farm team. They are most certainly wonder if Ranger Coach Phil Watson isn't doing the same thing.

The Rangers lost to Montreal, 4-1, Thursday night, and the performance was not one to draw praise from Watson. Maybe Watson will make some changes.

The victory gave the Canadiens, who haven't lost a game since Nov. 26, a 12-point lead in the National Hockey league race over Detroit, which lost to Toronto, 2-0. Boston gained a tie for second with Detroit with a 4-2 victory over Chicago.

Mississippi '11' 6-Point Choice In Gator Bowl

Meets Florida Saturday Afternoon In Jacksonville

BY TED SMITS

Jacksonville, Fla. — (AP) — Mississippi and Florida — two football teams that gave national champion Louisiana State fierce competition — meet in the fourteenth annual Gator bowl game Saturday afternoon.

Gator bowl selectors couldn't get the national champions for their post-season game but they feel they got the two best matched available teams.

Rated No. 11
Odds on the major bowl games bear them out. Mississippi, ranked eleventh in the nation in the final Associated Press poll, is six points favorite over Florida, ranked fourteenth. All the favorites in the New Year's day bowls — Texas as Christian over Air Force, Louisiana State over Clemson, Oklahoma over Syracuse and Iowa over California — are wider choices.

Mississippi, returning only two regulars from its Sugar bowl championship team of a year ago, won eight games, lost two in the 1958 season.

Florida had a season record of six victories, three losses and one tie. This is Mississippi's seventh bowl game but first time in the Gator bowl. The Rebels have won in the Sugar, Cotton and Delta bowls; lost twice in the Sugar and once in the Orange bowls for a 3-3 bowl standing.

Florida's only previous bowl game was in the Gator bowl, and the Gators won it over Tulsa.

North Lineup Still Not Set

South Prepares Pro-Type Offense For Saturday

Miami, Fla. — College all-stars get in final practice ticks today for the Shrine's North-South football game in the Orange bowl Saturday night.

Individual performances were expected to settle starting lineups. North Coach Ara Parseghian of Northwestern announced he wanted to see the Yanks' final workout before deciding between Nick Mumley, 240, of Purdue and Bob Wetoska, 225, of Notre Dame for a hotly-contested left tackle spot.

Darrell Royal of Texas, coach of the South squad, promised a wide-open, pro-type offense. Royal has had his Rebels working on pass plays built around Baylor's Buddy Humphrey, a top hand among collegiate pigskin marksmen.

Tangerine Bowl Tilt Set For Saturday

Orlando, Fla. — (AP) — East Texas State and Missouri Valley, old hands at small college football games, meet Saturday in the thirteenth annual Tangerine bowl.

Missouri Valley has appeared in eight bowl contests in the last 10 years. East Texas has made three post-season appearances since 1953, all of them in the Tangerine bowl.

This will be the second Tangerine bowl this year for the Texans. They defeated Mississippi Southern, 10-9, last Jan. 1. The Lions won and tied in their previous Tangerine games. The Missouri Valley Vikings have a bowl record of 5-2-1.

Saturday's game shapes up as a battle between two potent offensive teams. In rolling over eight opponents without a loss this season, Missouri Valley registered a total offense average of 449 yards a game.

The Lions averaged 388 yards in compiling a 9-1 record.

The victory gave the Canadians, who haven't lost a game since Nov. 26, a 12-point lead in the National Hockey league race over Detroit, which lost to Toronto, 2-0. Boston gained a tie for second with Detroit with a 4-2 victory over Chicago.

Dupas Fights Hart Tonight

'Sugar' Is 7-5 Underdog in Miami Beach Bout

Miami, Fla. — "F" Garnet "Sugar" Hart said he came here to knock out Ralph Dupas in their scheduled 10-round main event at Miami Beach auditorium tonight. The welterweight fight will be nationally televised over the NBC network at 9 p. m. (EST).

Despite Hart's supreme confidence and his record of flattening 20 of his 29 opponents, he looms as a 7-5 underdog when the opening bell rings. The critics just can't see him matching the ringcraft and experience of the New Orleans battler.

Dupas has had 89 fights, with 74 victories, 9 defeats and 6 draws. Although only 23, he rates as a veterans campaigner.

Hart, who has been training in his home town of Philadelphia, arrived here Wednesday.

Hart has been kayoed twice himself, once by Fred Perry when he was a preliminary boy, and the other time by Virgil Atkins, who handed him his last defeat, in August, 1957.

Schoendienst Sets Record

Fields .987 in '58; Torre and Crandall Also Stand Out

New York — (AP) — "Red" Schoendienst, the Milwaukee Braves' ailing second baseman, set a national league fielding record in 1958, the official averages revealed this week.

Schoendienst, now a tuberculosis patient in a St. Louis hospital, had a .987 fielding average, breaking the mark he shared with Claude Rittche, who played with Pittsburgh in the early 1900s.

The 35-year-old Milwaukee fielder led the National league's second basemen for the seventh time.

Other Milwaukee players who led fielding at their positions were first baseman Frank Torre and catcher Del Crandall. Torre's .994 average put him at the head of the senior circuit's first sackers for the second year in a row. His closest competitors were Dale Long of Chicago and Gil Hodges of Los Angeles, each with .990.

Crandall led the catchers by edging Hank Poles of Pittsburgh, .9904 to .9900.

They'll Do It Every Time

LSU's Dietzel Came From Nowhere To 1958 Coach of the Year Honors

Tigers Had Won Just 12 Tilts in Previous Three Seasons

BY FRANK ECK
Of The Associated Press
Young and handsome Paul F. Dietzel hoped to be a doctor but he changed his mind in 10 seconds when the call came to coach football.

That was 10 years ago last summer. Dietzel, it appears, made the right move for his Louisiana State eleven went unbeaten and untied in 1958 and appropriately was chosen No. 1 team of the year. Dietzel, of course, was named coach of the year.

The 34-year-old personable blond native of Mansfield, Ohio, came from nowhere, as the sports saying goes, to put LSU on the football map with its first unbeaten and untied team in 50 years and its first Southeastern Conference championship in 22 years.

75-Year Pact
Honors are still being tossed toward the coach whose LSU Tigers won 10 games and a Sugar bowl invitation. His best prize is a five-year coaching contract at $16,500 per.

"I had been accepted by Columbian Medical school in June, 1948," Dietzel began, "I wanted to be a doctor. Then I received a letter from Sid Gilman who had been my coach at Miami, Ohio. He had gone to West Point and wanted me to help coach the Army Plebes. I made up my mind in 10 seconds."

Dietzel eventually became another in the long line of "Red" Blaik assistants who have made good as head coaches, Gilman being a Blaik staffer at the time. Former Army, Nebraska and LSU coach "Biff" Jones, incidentally, recommended Paul for the LSU job, then told him "you ought to apply for the job."

Verbal Lashing
Dietzel told his plans to Blaik and received a verbal lashing. "That was athletic director," said Blaik. "Now, man to man, hustle down to Baton Rouge and get that job."

"Talking to Col. Blaik was like talking to my father," says Dietzel. "I worked under him for two terms and hated to leave Army. I was in the Air Force in World War II." (The modest coach flew 12 missions over Japan as a B-29 pilot.)

What made LSU a sudden power after Dietzel's Tigers had won but 12 of 31 games in his three previous years in the SEC?

"The new rules helped," says Dietzel. "We had 33 starters and seven good asstant coaches. I had a White unit (his 11 best men), a Go unit and the Chinese Bandits, a defensive group."

The Bandits, named after Milt Caniff's comic strip, have so captivated LSU grid adherents that most of the squad members get a kick out of playing defense.

No Intention
Dietzel's team could honestly have been called the Night Raiders for their first nine victories came under lights. In the only daytime game his charges whopped Tulane at New Orleans, 62-0, and he came in for much criticism.

"I honestly had no intention that this happen. I tried to keep the score down," says the coach. "The score was 35-0 with eight minutes to play and the White team was the only group eligible to play. It was the only time we got caught all year. It was exactly the opposite of what I tried to do."

"Over the season one thing turned the tide for LSU. I think our success was based on a wonderful team effort."

"We used only 36 players, 35 lettered and 32 of these will be back. We play Rice, Texas Christian and Baylor in our first three games next fall."

Maybe things will be different. "It's going to be interesting to see if we can stay up there after getting there."

There appears little doubt in this writer's mind that Dietzel will have any difficulty remaining a winner, especially with All-America Billy Cannon back with a White unit. Dietzel's planning permits this group to see about 35 minutes of action in each game.

Colts Brush Up on Pass Interception Technique for Giants

Unitas Has Off Day During Christmas Drill; Backs Wear Giants' Numbers

Baltimore — (AP) — Johnny Unitas, the rifle-armed passer for the Baltimore Colts, is sure he'll have his aerials on target for the big battle against the New York Giants Sunday.

One thing was evident in Christmas day drills: Unitas pegs were evidently up to holiday hi-jinks.

The star quarterback, who has connected on better than 50 per cent of his passes during the season, was often hitting the dirt or sailing the ball like a satellite over the receiver.

Coach "Weeb" Ewbank was a bit disturbed but Unitas assured him, "Don't worry coach. I'll be all right."

Meanwhile, the Western conference titlists of the National Football league brushed up on a specialty—their pass interception technique.

To help get his charges used to the Giant backfield men, Ewbank had offensive players wear jerseys with the same numbers worn by the likes of quarterback Charley Conerly and halfback Frank Gifford.

Baltimore defenders managed to share 35 enemy aerials during the 12-game regular season. The runbacks totaled a hefty 514 yards.

Most Proficient
Andy Nelson and Raymond Brown were the most proficient pilferers. Each snagged eight. Nelson returned them for a total of 190 yards including a touchdown. Brown rolled up 149 yards on runbacks.

Ewbank isn't concerned whether the Giants will cook up a secret weapon like the "Brown special" — a double reverse and lateral which gave them their only touchdown against the Cleveland Browns last Sunday.

He promised the Colts would have some "Giant specials" of their own.

ing pointmakers are senior Bob Tollefson (58), junior Dick Wilson (56) and junior Jack Ankerson (47).

Other Rockets who are likely to see action against Appleton are senior Jerry Morder (27 points) and Tom Smith (23).

Neehan has a 2-1 non-conference record having thumped Wisconsin Rapids (70 - 58) and Ripon (74-63) and losing a close decision to Fond du Lac (52-49). In M-E play, Neehan has beaten Clintonville (58-46) and Kaukauna (49-39) while losing to Shawano (68-55) and Two Rivers (68-55).

Appleton's lone win was over Sheboygan Central. The Terrors have lost to Menasha, Kimberly, Green Bay West and Manitowoc.

Favor Letting Grid Coach Talk To Players During Time Out

By the Associated Press

By a 2-to-1 margin, sports writers and broadcasters favor giving a football coach the same privilege as most other coaches have—the privilege of conferring with his players and advising them during time-out intervals.

Of 155 experts casting ballots on this question in the Associated Press post-season football questionnaire, 121 voted yes and 62 no on the question:

"Do you think coaches should be permitted to confer with the quarterback or team captain during time out, as is done in basketball?"

Twelve were undecided or expressed no definite opinion.

The National Football Rules committee has refused to consider changing the rule which bans coaching from the sidelines although a number of coaches have suggested it.

The reason most frequently advanced by the writers and broadcasters for permitting such conferences was that coaches evade the rule, anyway, by signals or using substitutes as messengers.

Opponents of a change generally argued that the game belongs to the players, once it starts.

Arguments in favor of a change were that the coach is held responsible if his team loses but he doesn't have much chance to make a move that might prevent a defeat, that better and more interesting football might result and that it would take some pressure off the players if they could get advice.

Besides objecting to coaching from the sidelines on traditional grounds, negative voters voiced two fears—that coaches would call every play and that the conferences would slow up the game.

Badger Cagers Returning to Drills Today

Wisconsin's Next Start Is Thursday Against Butler

Madison — (AP) — The Christmas vacation ends tonight for the University of Wisconsin basketball team, slated to make its last non-conference start against Butler in Indianapolis next Tuesday night.

After the Butler tussle, the Badgers will open their Big Ten season in Minneapolis against Minnesota on Jan. 3.

The Badgers show a 2-5 slate in warmup games, and the task facing Coach "Bud" Foster is to find a bit of offense to go with the good Badger defense. Opponents in the last four games averaged 61 points, compared with 78.3 in the first three games.

In the same four contests the Badgers managed to up their offensive average to 56.3 points, against 49 points in the first three games.

Foster also must begin to think about finding a successor for Ray Gross who graduates at the end of next month.

Cincinnati '5' Averages 91.2 Points Per Game

By the Associated Press
Oscar Robertson and Cincinnati have slumped a bit, but "Big O" and the Bearcats are tops in major college basketball scoring races.

Robertson, the All-America who took the individual scoring crown as a sophomore last season, has slipped below a 40-point average for the first time this season, according to NCAA Service bureau statistics of games through last Saturday. He's averaging 38.3 (down from 42.7).

Up From Fifth
That also shaved the unbeaten Bearcats' output a bit but they jumped from second to first in the team race with a 91.2 average. They had been rolling at a 85.7-point-a-game clip, but moved up as Ohio University dropped from a bold 101.7 average to 83.5 and skidded from first to eighth. Jimmy Hagan of Tennessee

Tech, up from fifth place, became the new challenger to Robertson's runaway. Hagan scored 45 points against Louisiana Tech and topped his average to 33.0, passing Mississippi State's Bailey Howell, who now is third with a 32.1 average.

Pittsburgh's little Don Henon, another All-America, and Jon Cincex of Syracuse round out the top five in individual scoring. Henon's game average is 29.7. Cincex has a 27.0 average.

Mississippi State (89.4), Tennessee Tech (88.4), Miami of Florida (88.0) and Auburn (85.2) fall in behind Cincinnati for the top five spots in team scoring. St. John's of New York is a close sixth behind Auburn with an 85.17 average.

Hank Stein of Xavier Ohio retained the free throw lead with 94.3, sinking 33 of 35. Stanford (49.3) took over the team-defense lead with Providence (50.4) and San Francisco (50.6) right behind. Oklahoma State, the past leader, slipped to eighth with 52.7.

Grays 3-Point Favorite Over Blues Saturday

Free Substitution To be in Effect At Montgomery

Montgomery, Ala. — College all-stars who may turn pro will get a taste of 2-point football in the Blue-Gray game Saturday.

The limited substitution rule will be waived and coaches will be able to alternate offensive and defensive teams each time the ball changes hands.

But in every other respect, the 48 seniors will be governed by the college regulations they've been playing under—including the chance to pick up two points instead of one after a touchdown.

Increased Hope
Meanwhile, the prospect of rain for the 20th annual game gave Yankee performers increased hope of breaking the Rebels' winning habits. The South has been on top on the scoreboard in 13 of the 19 games.

Rated a 3-point favorite by the soothsayers who have watched both squads work out, the Southerners are hoping for fair weather to make the most of a strong running and passing attack.

The game will be televised nationally (NBC). Kickoff is at 1 p.m., CST.

Take Effect March 10

Controversial Motor Boating Rules Issued

Washington — (AP) — The final version of the new motor boating regulations will be issued officially by publication in the Federal Register dated Dec. 25, the Coast Guard says.

The rules take effect March 10 but boat numbering requirements will not be effective until April 1, 1960.

Not Made Public
Considerable controversy has been aroused by the regulations, which establish rules for administering the federal boating act passed by the last congress.

Following a public hearing here Dec. 9, they were modified to provide:

1. Boating accident reports required by the new law will not be made public but may be used for statistical studies on accident prevention. Boat owners thus have assurance their reports will not be used as evidence against them in possible damage suits.

2. The minimum height of registration numbers, required on all boats powered with 10 horsepower or more, was reduced from the proposed four inches to three inches.

3. Fees may be paid by check or other means instead of exclusively by money order.

The Coast Guard said the regulations will be filed with Congress at the opening of the new session Jan. 7. The law

Animal Lover Has Trouble With Thieves

Orange, N. J. — James Cook is fond of animals. So is somebody else.

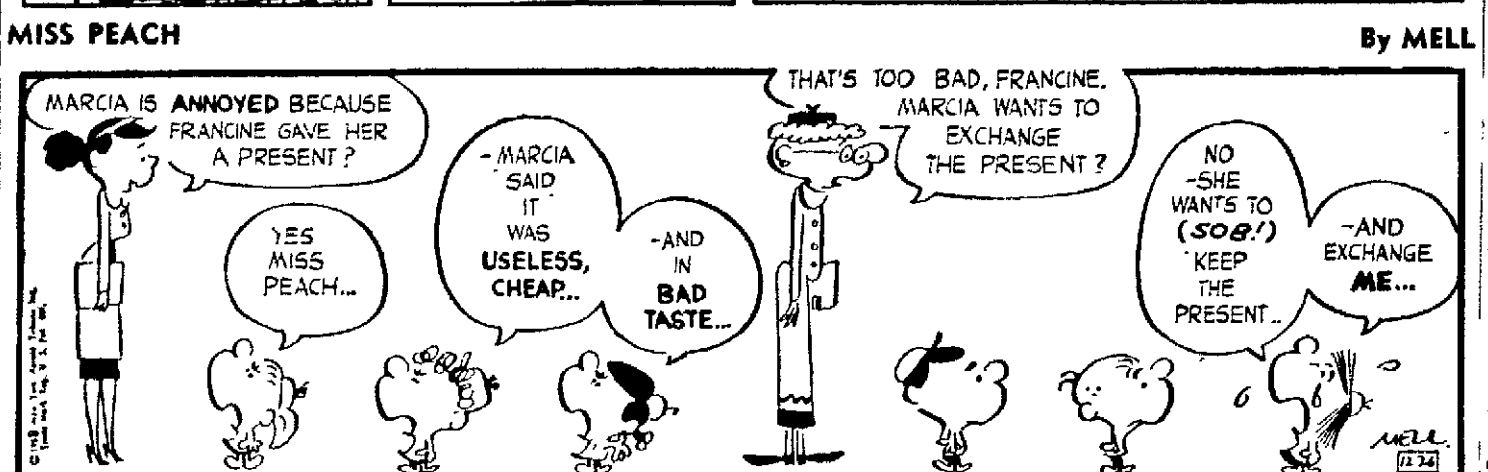

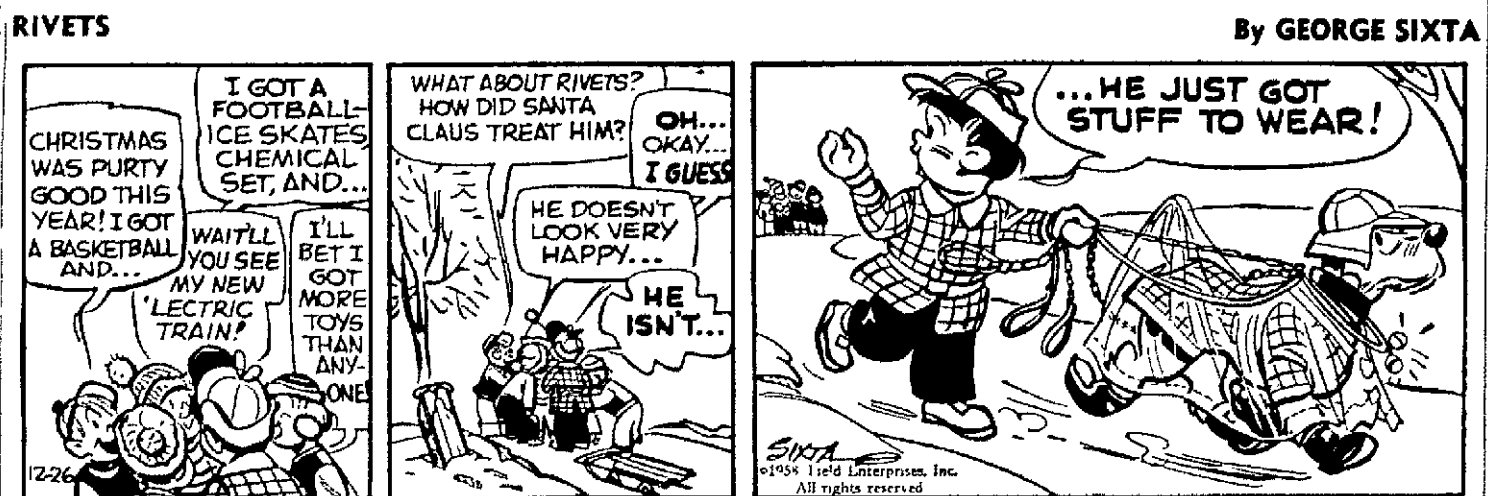

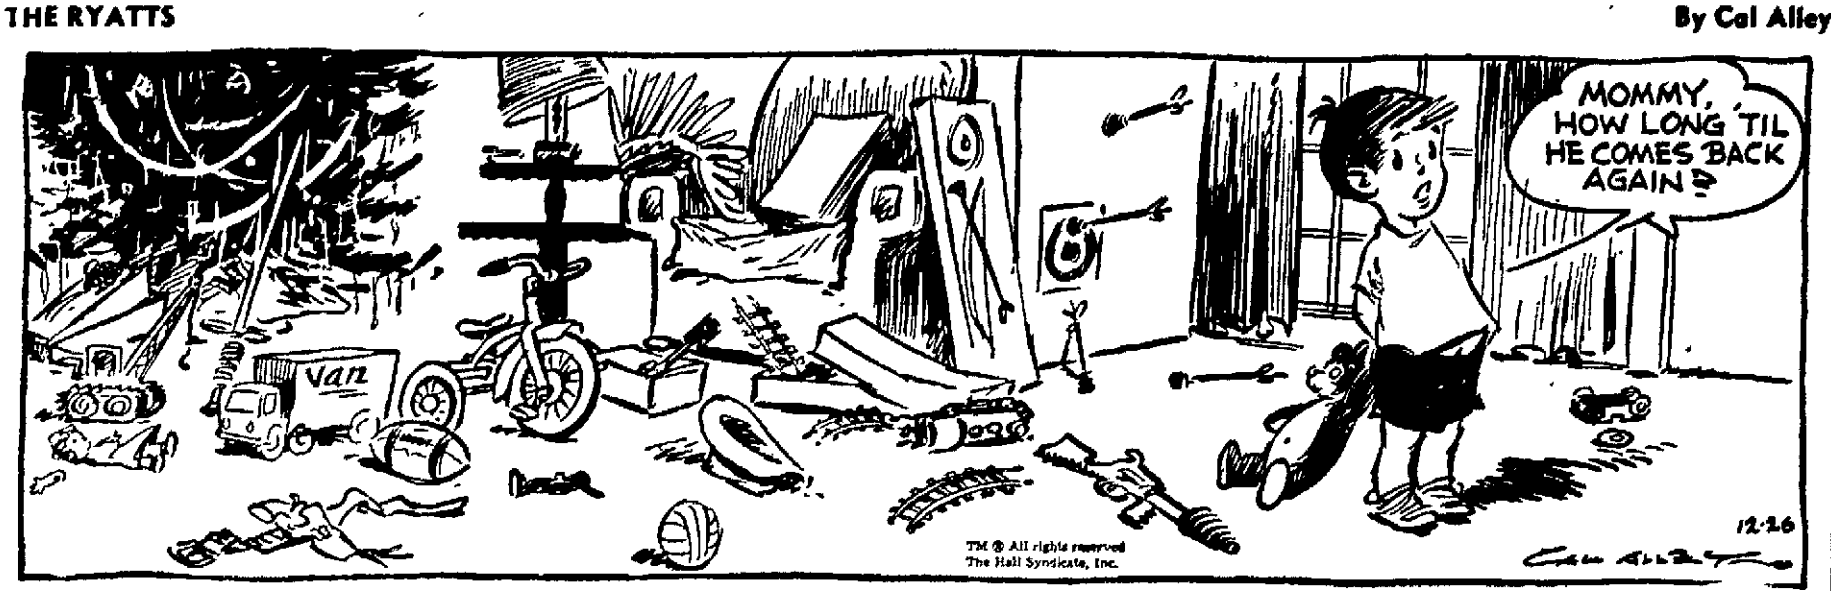

Cook recently bought a pig to keep in his backyard. Some one stole it. Then he bought a dozen ducks. Some one stole them. Then a possum which promptly had a litter of 10. The whole family was swiped.

Finally, he bought 10 chicks which grew up into nine hens and a rooster. If you think some one stole all of them, you're wrong. They left him the rooster.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words often misused: Do not say, "We plan on spending some of the money for improvements." Say, "We plan TO SPEND some of the money."

Often mispronounced: Fracas. Pronounce fray-kuss, accent on first syllable.

Word study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's word: cloak-and-dagger; of literature, dealing in intrigue and melodramatic action, usually of characters in a colorful, historical setting, and involving espionage, duels, or the like. "This writer's stories are all of the cloak-and-dagger variety."

Cardboard Jumping Jack Will Give Lots of Pleasure

BY CAPPY DICK

If you want to have some fun, make a cardboard jumping jack. It's easy to do.

First, you must cut out the body, arms and legs of the figure. Use a figure that, when finished, can be colored to resemble a clown.

Draw the parts of the figure on the cardboard with pencil and then cut them out with scissors.

In the center of the man's black glue a small piece of wood for a handle (Figures 1 and 2).

Next, assemble the body, arms and legs, using string (Figure 1).

To do this, make a small hole in each shoulder of the body, using a pin. Then make a small hole at each side of the lower part of the body where the legs will be fastened on.

Next, make two small holes in the upper end of each arm, and two small holes in the upper end of each leg.

Tie a large knot at the end of a piece of string. Pass this string through one shoulder hole (from front to back) and pull it so the knot will be tight against the front of the man's shoulder. Next, thread this string into one of the holes of an arm and then into the other hole of the same arm, as shown in Figure 2.

Take the same string and of a piece of string. Pass this thread it next into one of the holes in the other arm and then in the other hole. Finally, thread it through the remaining shoulder hole of the man's body and make a knot that will be tight against the front of his shoulder.

Fasten the legs on with string in the same manner. Then attach another string from the one at the shoulders to the one at the legs, leaving a length free to pull.

When you hold the man by the wooden handle and pull the free string his arms and legs will move up and down in an amusing manner. (Copyright, 1958)

Use cardboard and string to make a jumping jack.

Traveler Sees Good In Off-Season Trip

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Lisbon — And now, just before I return to home base and a New York dateline, what I can give you about taking a vacation in Europe yourself in the off-season months?

Every year additional millions of us shift to fall - winter holidays; more and more corporations are spreading employ vacations over 12 months. Travel to Europe smashed all records in 1958, is heading for new peaks in 1959. A European vacation is now within the time and budget limits of vast numbers of middle-income American families.

What about going abroad at this time of year, then? After a 4-week holiday in Spain and Portugal, I've come up with some positive pros and cons. For your future guidance, here they are:

First, the advantages: (1) Going off-season is impressively cheaper.

Gives Statistics When Charles S. Thomas, president of Trans World Airlines, told me the day before we left that, "The smartest dollar stretchers today are the people who take late fall or winter vacations in Europe," I reported his remark to you, but I had no personal experience to confirm it. Now I can back it up with persuasive statistics.

Not only did we save $300 on our round-trip airline tickets alone by going at this time of year, but we also saved substantially on hotel rooms, auto rental, etc. We stayed at the finest hotels at rates that would have paid for only second-class recommendations in season. As the manager of our hotel in Granada, Spain, put it with disarming frankness, "I'm charging you the normal rate for your room

For the 11 months to the end of November, the C&NW reports a gross of $197,560,054, resulting in a net income of $3,169,619.

Cutbacks in South Cause Decline in Board Production

Chicago — A cutback by southern mills last week reduced paperboard output to 285,919 tons and industry operations to 91 per cent of capacity.

While last week's production was still above the year-earlier 280,705 tons, it fell below the 300,537 output and 94 per cent rate of the week before and was the first time since September, except for holiday-shortened weeks, that production fell under 300,000 tons.

New orders and backlogs also held above a year earlier but were below the week earlier pace. New business totaled 255,176 tons, almost 50,000 more than in the like week last year but about 20,000 under a week earlier. Unfilled orders at the end of last week totaled 364,444 tons, about 87,000 more than a year earlier and 39,000 less than a week earlier.

The price of old newspapers has advanced $2 a ton to $22 in the Chicago area. The increase reflects tight supplies because of recent snows and cold weather in large sections of the Midwest.

FWD Fills Its Line of Fire Trucks

Latest Models Offer 2-Wheel Drive and Cab Forward Units

Clintonville — The new line of fire apparatus being announced by the Four Wheel Drive Auto company includes the innovations of a 2-wheel drive and a 5-man "cab forward" model.

The custom engineered and custom built line covers a wide variety of triple combination pumpers and aerial ladder trucks. Pumper models range from 500 to 1,250 gallons per minute pumping capacity. Sizes of the aerial ladders offered by FWD, all of them metal, are 35, 65, 85 and 107 feet.

The 2-wheel drive model is the first ever offered by the firm which now, with its 4-wheel drive models, will cover the entire range of fire fighting applications.

The 5-man "cab forward" models offer the advantage of improved visibility and more seating capacity than the conventional cabs. The model is available in both semi-open and canopy style.

The new line also includes 3-man, closed tilt cabs and conventional cab models.

No Swimming In most of Spain and Portugal the weather is similar to that in New York in November — hardly what the seeker of the sun would want. You don't go swimming outdoors in Manhattan now, and you don't go swimming outdoors on the "sunny coasts" of Spain and Portugal now, either.

(2) You miss many events that usually attract the tourist.

We didn't see a bullfight in Spain or Portugal or witness the spectacular festival of these countries because these aren't the months for bull-fights and festivals. My reaction to this was one of indifference, because what we did see was enough for me — but you might not feel the same way about it.

Would we go to Europe again in the off-season months? With delight — which summarizes how I appraise the pros and cons.

More than 17,000 tax bills will be received Saturday by Appleton property owners from the city treasurer's office.

They call for payment of $4,683,840 in city, county and state taxes to help defray total spending of $7,204,205.

This compares to payment of $4,028,007 in taxes to help defray total spending of $6,128,318 this year.

Taxes are increased by $655,833 and spending is up $1,075,886.

Accompanying the bills will be charges for special street, sewer and water main work in an undetermined amount.

Property owners have until March 1 to pay the amounts in full. If they elect to pay in three installments, the first installment is due by Feb. 1, the second by May 1 and the third by Aug. 1.

Special Assessments No installments are permitted if the real estate portion of the tax is less than $80. Special assessments can be paid off on a 5-year plan.

Delinquent payments result in a charge of eight-tenths of 1 per cent interest.

The treasurer's office will be open from 9 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. daily, with added hours to 8 p. m. on Fridays, to accept payments.

Each bill contains a breakdown of the tax rate. There are two tax rates, one for the Outagamie section of the city and another for the Calumet county section.

GOP Will Meet Next Month to Pick Rally Site

5-Day Series of Talks Open Jan. 19
At Des Moines, Iowa

Washington — Republican will meet in Des Moines, Iowa, next month to pick a 1960 convention site and start working on that year's election campaign.

The 5-day series will include meetings of a convention site committee Jan. 19-20, the GOP executive committee Jan. 21, and the full Republican national committee Jan. 22-23.

The site committee will receive bids from interested cities and may make a recommendation for action by the national committee later in the week. The meeting comes a week after a Democratic site committee receives formal bids at a New Orleans meeting Jan. 16. The Democratic group will report to its full committee Feb. 27.

Seven Cities
Seven cities already have submitted informal bids for the Democratic convention, and all are reported interested also in the Republican meeting. They are Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami Beach, Philadelphia, New York and Atlantic City. Television networks have been urging selection of the same city for both conventions.

The national committee meeting, Chairman Mendel Auer said, "has been called to begin intensive development of a 2-year program for the presidential and congressional campaigns of 1960."

It will include study of last month's election results and of possible ways of strengthening the party organization.

Another kind of organizational problem faced Republican members of the senate as a group of GOP insurgents pushed efforts to take party control in that body.

Single Candidate
The small group of senators, variously labeled progressive, moderate and liberal, still has not agreed whom to back but one of them, Sen. Clifford Case (R-NJ) said yesterday he is sure they will unite behind a single candidate for the party's floor leadership.

Case said he favors Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), a leader in the insurgents' movement, but Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn) sent letters to the 34 Republican senators boasting Sen. John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.) Another often mentioned is Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.).

The group will meet again Dec. 30 to pick candidates for the leadership post and other party positions.

Russell to Try Bill for Relocation

Atlanta — Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) says he will try again to persuade his congressional colleagues to pass a law providing for voluntary relocation of whites and Negroes as a means of reducing racial tensions.

Russell's bill, a revised version of one he introduced in 1949, would provide federal assistance to Negroes in the south who want to move to states having a low percentage of Negroes. It would make the same assistance available to whites desiring to move into the south. The 1949 measure never got out of committee.

The senator said yesterday that if other states had a larger share of the race problem "we would have a workable means of easing racial tensions."

No More Than Aid

Russell said his program would cost no more than the United States spends each year on foreign aid. The government is spending about four billion dollars this year in its foreign aid program.

Russell said his proposal would set up a voluntary racial relocation commission to encourage and assist those desiring to move to other states. It would require approval of the governor or legislature before the plan could operate in a state.

The commission would make outright grants to defray moving costs. It could make loans and offer other assistance to help relocated families get established.

Refugee Camp Gives New Hope to Many

First Stop for Those 'Voting With Their Feet' Is Marianfelde, West Germany

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

Berlin — The inn at Bethlehem, where the world's hope was born, was a mean enough place. So perhaps one should not be too astonished by the mean shabbiness of Marianfelde, a refugee camp, which is the birthplace of new hope for several thousand men and women every week.

This is the first stop for most of those who "vote with their feet," as the free Berliners say, against the communist slave state in East Germany. Nowadays, almost all the East German refugees come to Marianfelde, for free Berlin is the only escape route that is still open.

The setting, a bleak clump of workers' apartment houses surrounded by a high wire fence, is depressing in itself. The "processing" is worse. Everywhere there are the same long, patient queues of ill-clad people, slumped on hard benches, eternally waiting to be registered and interrogated and assigned to dormitories and re-interrogated and assigned to new homes in West Germany and given airplane tickets and finally herded towards the buses that take them to Tempelhof airfield.

But purgatory, though painful, is probably a rather cheerful place, because its inhabitants know they have escaped hell and can hope for heaven. For just these reasons, at any rate, Marianfelde is quite exceptionally cheerful. The habit of years keeps the people in the queues from talking too freely. But they do not complain. They help one another.

My day at Marianfelde was just after the weekend, so several hundred people were already waiting for registration to begin in the chilly darkness just before the belated winter sunrise. It is simplest to escape on a weekend, because the worker is not missed from his work; and the family can tell the guards on the train that they are going to visit friends or relatives in Berlin. Once in Berlin, the time of suspense is over. All that is needed is to take one of the suburban trains that cross through the free city at the rush hour.

Too many of the thousands who flee each week are the best and the most valuable — skilled industrial workers rebelling against communist exploitation; young men and women with their educations just completed; and now professors, engineers, scientists, and other highly skilled technicians of all sorts. These last are a new element. They did not come before, because they were well paid and comfortable and had much to lose. But since the East German government's return to a hard Stalinist line, even these privileged men and women are ready to lose everything in order to gain freedom.

Minor Post

I talked with several of them. Possibly Herr Ulbricht will not greatly mind the gap left by the young art historian with a minor museum post. He had fled "because I care only for my subject, and all the professors with whom I can pursue my studies have fled already."

But consider the signal engineer from the East German state railways. The East German state had invested seven full years in this man's engineering training. And now he and his capable wife and his two gay, bright-haired children had all come out together, only three months after he had taken over the job he had been so laboriously trained for.

"It will not be easy," said the wife, "to get another job as good as that. But he knew what we must do. It is strange, no, that we are all so cheerful to lose everything and start new?"

The others in the long queue nodded and smiled. At the Christmas season of 1958, when the threat of blockade again hangs over Berlin, those people in their queue make a good Christmas thought.

Washington said he wanted to be a serious painter—his true calling, he felt. The judge liked his work. He cancelled the rest of Washington's, 940-23 month sentence and sent him home in time for Christmas.

Bar Integration Ruled Permanent

Court Decision Means All Lawyers
Must Pay Dues to Organization

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The decision of the Wisconsin supreme court this week in ordering a continuation of the "integrated bar" of Wisconsin probably means the permanent fixing of the practice of law into a kind of corporate off-shoot of the state judicial system.

The court acted to approve the petition of the State Bar of Wisconsin, organized on a compulsory membership basis two years ago in another order of the court, for an indefinite extension of the court rule.

It means that all lawyers now and in the future will be members of the State Bar of Wisconsin and will pay dues for its maintenance. It climaxes a controversy which has raged at intervals for nearly two decades.

More Members
The State Bar of Wisconsin, in an integrated basis, replaces the old Wisconsin Bar association which functioned with voluntary members. The voluntary association had fewer members. There are about 5,300 members in the new organization.

Some lawyers have resisted integration. Some of them have resisted the idea of compulsion. Others have argued that a voluntary association can more effectively represent the interests and the purposes of the profession. Some of the dissidents have demanded a referendum on the issue of integration and have claimed that the failure to order such a poll shows an undemocratic spirit. In point of fact there was once a poll of the bar, when the integration plan was originally promoted more than a decade ago. According to Philip Haberman, new executive secretary of the organization, it showed a heavy majority in favor of the integration action.

In granting permanent status, us, under continuing court control and supervision, the supreme court gave considerable weight to the fact that similar organizations today function in a majority of the states. In none of them has integration been abandoned. The latest integrated bar is that of Alaska, the newest state, it was noted.

Heart of the court's decision is the idea that judges and the judicial system are responsible for the efficient administration of justice, and that members of the bar are important elements of that process and are, in fact, officers of the court. Thereupon the court should have a supervision over the functions of the legal profession, it was said.

"It is not undemocratic to require those who are privileged to practice law and are entrusted with the duty to secure or protect the property, rights and liberties of others to become bound together in a united effort to increase their own capabilities, to maintain the high standards of the group and to increase the effectiveness of their service to the public," said the court in a decision signed by all of its members.

The court also tried to eliminate a misunderstanding about the powers of the integrated bar. It does not have punitive or disciplinary powers, the judges emphasized.

Disciplinary power is delegated to the court by law. Disciplinary and disbarment actions are handled by a state board of bar commissioners, an administrative branch of the court, which has no relation to the State Bar of Wisconsin.

The court also repeated that it has the power to amend or disband the State Bar of Wisconsin, whenever it is convinced that its activities are contrary to the interests of the public or the profession.
